County Cracking Down on Welfare Cheats

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Department of Social Services—whose budget has swelled astronomically since the mid-1960's—has announced plans to intensify its campaign against the welfare cheats and frauds who have reportedly stolen some $50,000 from the public till during the past year.

Bernhardt S. Kramer, commissioner of the Ulster County Social Services Department, who created a special "Fraud and Desertion" unit last year, said Wednesday that the county's investigating staff will be enlarged in an attempt to crack down on the growing number of welfare recipients who unscrupulously and ingeniously rob the county.

The county's annual welfare budget now stands at $14.5 million; it could conceivably grow to $20 million in 1975. With that much money changing hands, Kramer is understandably intent on keeping losses to a minimum.

At present, there are five people working out of the department's fraud unit; another two or three investigators will be added shortly to keep pace with the growing number of welfare and relief applications that are processed every week.

In addition, said Kramer, he has received a commitment from District Attorney Francis J. Vogt that the DA's staff will actively participate in the investigation, discovery, prevention and recoupment of fraudulently obtained welfare funds.

Under the expanded fraud unit program, said Kramer, an investigator will, for the first time, actually go out into the field in an attempt to uncover welfare cheats.

Welfare fraud, said Kramer, has become an increasingly sophisticated business, and often it is difficult to uncover or prove illegal activities without on-the-spot surveillance. An investigator in the field, for instance, is in a much better position to determine whether a relief recipient is getting more than he or she deserves than an employe confined to a desk in the Social Services office.

If, for instance, a welfare recipient is seen driving a luxury car around town, an investigation is certainly warranted. If a welfare family is found to be paying bills for new furniture or appliances—or even if a family is paying all its bills and debts on time—the welfare department wants to know where that money is coming from. If a neighbor reports very un-welfare-like activities at a recipient's house next door, an investigator will scrutinize those activities.

Kramer concedes that it is extremely difficult to prove welfare fraud—even if the evidence is substantial— because the INTENT to defraud must be established. For that reason, the Social Services department prefers to reach some kind of settlement with the suspect on a one-to-one basis.

"Our primary aim is to get the money back," said Kramer, "after all, it costs money to bring these people to trial and it costs money to put them in jail. If we can resolve a matter without going to the district attorney or the grand jury, we will."

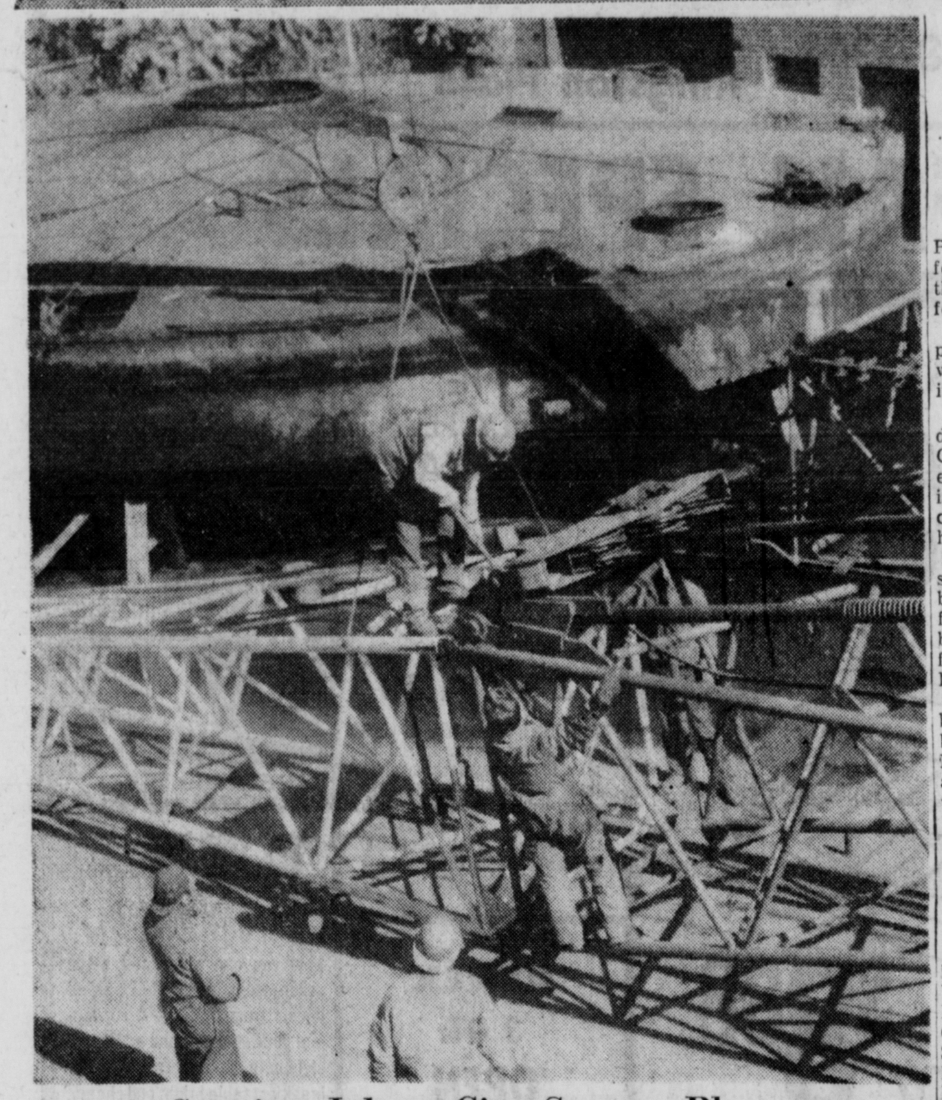

And, of course, it costs money to maintain a "fraud unit" that must try to prevent the cheats from embezzling the county. But Kramer says the added expense is justified.

"The unit pays for itself," he noted. "Because of its efforts, most of the money that we lost last year was recovered."

Although his campaign is geared to assure that "the needy and not the greedy" receive welfare assistance, Kramer emphasized that "the great majority of people who receive assistance are in need of that assistance." The thieves, he said, are few in number, but they manage to steal increasingly large amounts of public money that the county can ill afford to lose.

Capping Job at City Sewage Plant

Workmen remove 18-ton cap from one of the city's 275,000 gallon sludge digesters at the sewage treatment plant on East Strand. Engineers figured it was time to clean and modernize the cap which was installed in 1947. A new cap with a gas recirculation system will be installed weighing some 28 tons but will considerably improve the efficiency of the city's digester system. Officials expect the repair and reinstallation job to be finished by the end of next month. The city has two digester tanks at the Strand plant and will operate with the primary digester until repairs are finished on the secondary system. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Confident Of Success Within A Few Months

Ford Defends Proposals

WASHINGTON (U P I) — President Ford holds out hope for a "meaningful reduction" in the rate of inflation in only a few months.

He says he is so confident his program will work he doesn't want to discuss what happens if it fails.

But Ford has been put on the defensive. Even Republicans in Congress are shying away from embracing his 5 per cent income tax surcharge on corporations and on middle and high-income taxpayers.

Many in Congress say Ford should have been tougher on both the inflation and energy fronts. "The bullet has not been bitten," complains Mike Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader.

Still wearing a "WIN" pin in his lapel, the President stood in brilliant sunshine in the White House Rose Garden Wednesday and defended his proposals, especially the tax. "WIN" stands for "Whip Inflation Now."

It was his third full-scale news conference as president — and the first not dominated by questions about Richard M. Nixon.

Ford said the surtax would only cost $42 — a mere 12 cents a day — to the family of four with $20,000 in income. The family of four with $16,000 pays only $3 a year, he said. Families earning $15,000 would pay no extra tax.

The tax program, along with other measures he proposed, will reduce the need for federal borrowing, Ford said, and thereby make loans more available to home buyers, reviving a depressed industry.

"I'm convinced, if the Congress responds, if the American people respond in a voluntary way, that we can have hopefully early in 1975 some meaningful reduction in the rate of inflation," Ford said.

On Capitol Hill, it appeared the tax might pass only if it is adjusted to hit only those in he higher brackets.

With four weeks to an election, Congress is sensitive to the complaints of the middle-class that they are the victims of inflation and should not be made the victims of its cure.

Ford declined at the news conference to discuss his decision to pardon Nixon, saying he wanted to wait until he has made his appearance before a House judiciary subcommittee which will question him once the Watergate conspiracy jury is sequestered.

Ford also:

—Reaffirmed that he will "probably" run for president in 1976 despite the furor over the Nixon pardon and the illness of his wife, Betty.

—Announced he would meet at the border with President Louis Echeverria Alvarez of Mexico on Oct. 21 "to seek to strengthen our traditionally good relations."

Highlights of President Ford's news conference Wednesday follow:

The Economy: "I am convinced if the Congress responds, if the American people respond in a voluntary way, that we can have, hopefully early in 1975, some meaningful reduction in the rate of inflation."

The proposed 5 per cent anti-inflation surtax: "For a family of four, with a $20,000 gross income — that is wages — the one-year extra tax will amount to $42, which is 12 cents a day. For a person on a $15,000 a year income, family of four, there is no extra tax. And if you take it to $16,000 . . . the added cost of the 5 per cent surtax is $3, which is less than one cent a day." He said the tax would apply to only 28 per cent of American taxpayers.

Will he run in 1976?: "The words that I used (at his first news conference), if I recall accurately, were I would probably be a candidate in 1976. I have seen nothing to change that decision and if and when there is, I will promptly notify you."

His request for $850,000 for Richard Nixon's transition, which the House has cut to $200,000: "The amount that was submitted on this occasion was roughly comparable to the amounts that have been made available to other Presidents who were leaving office . . . I will let Congress make its decision right or wrong."

Paltz Board Protests 'Beatings'

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Town Board has voted to send a letter to Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin, Chairman of the County Legislature Peter J. Savago, District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, and the State Department of Corrections, protesting alleged "physical beatings" of defendants in New Paltz court cases in the Ulster County Jail.

The action came at the board's meeting Wednesday night, and was done at the request for "some positive action" by New Paltz Town Justice S. Parks Glenn.

Glenn, in a letter to the board dated Oct. 2, said a recent beating in the jail was the second in two months for Town of New Paltz court defendants.

The victim of the first beating, according to Glenn's letter which did not name the victim, ". . . was refused medical help while in jail and was sent by the court to a local physician upon arraignment."

"This same defendant alleged that the beating took place in the presence of a guard and furthermore that he was in the same cell block as a convicted murderer," wrote Glenn.

Attached to Glenn's request for action was a letter from New Paltz attorney Stewart T. Schantz to Vogt on behalf of Donald Lynes. Glenn stated that he had assigned Schantz to Lynes' court case; the justice stid the Schantz letter was "self-explanatory."

Legislator charges Sheriff and associates with dealing "misinformation to the public." Story on page 3.

In his letter to Vogt, Schantz said he was assigned counsel to Lynes "in a Town Justice matter in the Town of New Paltz." The letter is dated Sept. 20.

"On Sept. 18th, 1974, wrote Schantz, "I went up to speak to Mr. Lynes, who is presently in the Ulster County Jail. I was informed by my client that during the first day or two of his incarceration, he was subjected to physical beating and assault by the inmates of said facility, with particular beatings being located on or around his head.

"I believe that the existence of such conditions are intolerable for any reason, and wish to express my personal complaint and shock that such conditions are allowed to exist in any facility in this county. I would appreciate it if you would look into this matter and take whatever steps are necessary to see that such ocurrences do not happen again.'

In writing to the town board, Glenn said, "I realize that the jail and the Sheriff's Department have been under some investigation already but I think that the Town of New Paltz has been aggrieved and that the New Paltz Town Board should take some positive action in relation to the conditions in the Ulster County Jail."

DWI Charge Against Joan Kennedy

McLEAN, Va. (UPI) — Joan Kennedy, the wife of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was charged with drunken driving Wednesday after her convertible bumped into a car stopped at a red light in suburban Virginia.

There were no injuries, and total damage in the three-car collision was estimated at $1,400.

Edward McGrath, whose car was struck, said Mrs. Kennedy, 38, "was very concerned about the accident and very upset. I really thought she was a nice lady.

"She said over and over again she was really sorry that it happened and just thankful that no one was hurt."

McGrath, 49, a Defense Department employe, said he was not aware at the time that she would be cited for drunken driving.

A police spokesman said a breathalyzer test was administered to Mrs. Kennedy at a police substation after the incident, but he declined to make public the result.

Mrs. Kennedy, who was alone in her car at the time of the accident, appeared before a magistrate and was released on personal recognizance. No court date has been set.

A spokesman for Sen. Kennedy said he left Capitol Hill to return to the family home in McLean after receiving word of the accident.

McGrath said Mrs. Kennedy's car hit his smaller one with a "pretty solid bump," and his auto bounced forward and smacked into the back of the next vehicle driven by Carol Pinder, 25, of Vienna, Va.

Only McGrath's car suffered significant damage, with both front and back ends caved in.

McGrath said Mrs. Kennedy, who was wearing white tennis shoes and a leather coat, exchanged drivers licenses and other information with him after all three cars involved pulled over to the side of the road and awaited police.

Asked if there were any obvious indications that she had been drinking, he replied, "I wouldn't say that there was any real evidence."

Mrs. Kennedy has been hospitalized for rest and therapy on three occasions in recent months at two institutions which treat emotional problems.

Fairfax County police said the charge on conviction carries maximum penalties of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine, and suspension of drivers' license for six months. Police said, however, that such penalties are reserved for very grave cases that usually involve injuries or fleeing the scene of the accident, circumstances that don't exist in Mrs. Kennedy's case.

WILBUR MILLS

(UPI Telephoto)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills appeared intoxicated and had blood and scratches on his face when his car was stopped for speeding with its lights out near the Jefferson Memorial early Monday, according to U.S. Park Police.

"An occupant who got out of the car identified himself as Congressman Mills," a police report said. "He also appeared intoxicated and there was blood coming from his nose and several other facial wounds."

A woman passenger of the car, who appeared drunk and highly emotional, jumped into the Tidal Basin near the memorial.

She was rescued by officers and later was taken to a mental hospital for observation, Deputy Park Police Franklin K. Arthur said.

An officer took Mills home, he said.

An aide to the House Ways and Means Committee chairman said earlier that Mills was not at the scene of the 2 a.m. incident, but had loaned his car to a neighbor that night.

The Arkansas Democrat, who did not appear on Capitol Hill Wednesday, could not be reached directly for comment, but his office said it had no further statement on the incident.

Arthur told a news conference that the other passengers in the car — three women and a man — also appeared to have been drinking and some were "obviously intoxicated."

Arthur said the incident began early Monday when park police, who guard federal parklands and monument areas, stopped a car traveling at "a high rate" of speed with its lights out near the Jefferson Memorial.

After the car stopped, Arthur said, Anabella Battistella, whose address was given as the same Arlington, Va., apartment building in which Mills lives, jumped out and lay on the ground.

Then she jumped into the Tidal Basin and officers went to her rescue, throwing a spare tire into the water to help pull her out, he said. She acted "in an irrational manner," Arthur said, and was taken to the hospital.

Arthur quoted a report filed by Pvt. Larry Brent saying Mills was "intoxicated." Mills had a bloody nose and facial injuries, Arthur said, but he refused medical attention although he accepted a ride home from police.

He said no test was given to Mills that would indicate that he had been drinking, but Brent made his report based on the smell of Mills' breath.

He said Brent could recognize Mills by sight, adding, "I think the officers on the scene could identify Congressman Mills."

Arthur said it was not unusual that no arrests were made in such incidents and added that the park police received no pressure from Mills or his office not to file any charges. He said the police considered the case closed.

In Little Rock, Ark., Mills' Republican opponent for re-election, Mrs. Judy Petty, said, "No comment. It's a personal problem and I have no comment."

ROSENDALE

The Postal Service traditionally overcomes, snow, rain, and the gloom of night to make its appointed rounds. Reporters, subject to harassment, threats of violence, threats of libel suits, threatening mobs and other deterrents in pursuit of a story, wish they had it so good.

Freeman reporter Carl Graham, who has dodged a few rocks and survived numerous threats to his well-being during his career, ran up against a new one Wednesday night. After covering the Rosendale Town Board meeting at the town hall on Main Street, he returned to the parking lot where he had left his 1974 Buick Apollo to find that it had been stolen. License number COG 771.

He returned to the town hall and with the assistance of Town Justice Albert Morelli notified State Police, the Sheriff's Department, and the town constabulary. Supervisor Richard Glazer furnished a ride back to Kingston. The results of his difficulties can be found on page 2.

County PR Job Description Sought

KINGSTON — Two Ulster County Legislators, concerned because they feel the public relations of Ulster County has received inadequate attention since the creation of the position of public relations director in 1971, are asking that the Legislature establish to a job description for the PR director.

In a resolution to be presented at tonight's meeting of the board at 8 p.m. in the County Office Building, Brian R. White (R-Dist. 8) and Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 6) will ask the board to create a job description because they feel "the public relations function of the director of public relations is of paramount importance."

White and Klein, neither of whom serve on the Industrial Development and Publicity Committee, would like to see that committee prepare the job description with emphasis on the public relations needs of Ulster county government. When the description is completed and approved the job requirements would then be presented to the director of public relations, Albert Cawein, with instructions for immediate implementation.

The two legislators said that when the legislature first established the post of PR director it did so with the intention of appointing a public relations agent to act in its behalf with the expressed intention of keeping the public informed and knowledgable as to its responsibilities and on behalf of the county government in general.

The county board is scheduled to meet at both 4 and 8 p.m. with Sheriff William B. Martin scheduled to appear at the afternoon session.

All resolutions will be taken up at the evening session with Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago presiding.

...Bikes, Zoning, Sewers

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Town Board, in a busy meeting Wednesday night, received two petitions for board action, held a long discussion on the events surrounding a proposed sewer district, sent a proposed revision of the town's subdivisions back to the planning board for further study and public airing, and received and tabled the resignation of the town's assessor.

The first petition, with 971 signatures, was presented to the board by New Paltz Middle School student Dody Weaver, who said the signatures had been gathered in "about two and a half days." The petition calls for the construction of bicycle paths on town roads, and town board support for bike paths on all other roads in the township.

Miss Weaver said the town's roads were "narrow and rocky," and a danger to both bikers and motorists. The petition was referred to the town's environmental conservation commission.

The second petition was for the rezoning of the present multi-dwelling district in the Plains Road area to single-family homes. It was signed by 101 people, most of them from Plains Road, Cedar Lane, and Woodland Drive. The people of that area turned out in force at a public hearing last month on a proposed rezoning that would have expanded the multi-dwelling zone.

A number of residents at that public hearing indicated that they wanted the zone done away with entirely.

The board took the petition under advisement, and will ask the planning board for recommendations.

Mrs. Martha Hoberecht had publicly charged a "quiet effort' to include the Duzine School in a propsoed sewer district, a move she said would have meant the school district would have paid for about 75 per cent of the district's costs.

She had been invited to Wednesday night's meeting by Councilwoman Anita Taylor. Mrs. Hoberecht said the school district had not been informed of the proposed sewer district until she had told them last march.

Board members said they had intended to inform the school district about the district, and had assumed that it had been done. They did not dispute Mrs. Hoberecht's figures on what the school district would have had to pay to join the sewer district, but said no one was going to be in the district if they did not want to.

The school district has informed the board it wants no part of the proposed sewer district, and is not in present plans for the sewer district.

Mrs. Taylor said the subdivision regulations as revised were "obnoxious," as well as "onerous" and "excessive." A main objection of hers was to the new "minor subdivisions" category which has been proposed, which means that subdivisions as small as two lots would have to come before the planning board. Other board members were less vehement about the regulations, but the board voted to send them back to the planning board for "clarification" and another public informational meeting. Mrs. Taylor was the lone vote against that, on the grounds that the regulations would need more than clarification to be acceptable to her.

Assessor Nicholas Badami, citing business commitments, resigned his post effective Jan. 1. His term would not have expired until Oct. 1, 1977. The board tabled the resignation until it sees how hard it will be to get a replacement for Badami.

In other action, the board set a public hearing for Nov. 13, its next regular meeting date, on the sewer use regulations. The public hearing will begin at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Taylor and Councilman John Gibbons were appointed by Supervisor Theodore Lasher to come up with guidelines on board executive sessions by the next regular meeting.

Lasher is to write the village board to request a joint public informational meeting on the agreement the two boards have reached on the consolidation of the two municipalities' police departments.

Carol Roper was appointed to the planning board, effective Dec. 8. That is the date Ashton Hart's term on that board runs out; he had asked not to be reappointed, town board members said, and Mrs. Roper was recommended as his replacement by the planning board.

Speed Limits in Rosendale

By CARL GRAHAM

ROSENDALE — Residents of Cottekill asked the Rosendale Town Board Wednesday night for help in getting speed limits lowered on Lucas Avenue extension near Cottekill Road.

One man told the board there had been numerous accidents there recently, saying Central Hudson had had five utility poles knocked down by cars in the past two years. Others said the situation in the growing area was dangerous, with speeds up to 80 miles an hour common.

The board passed a resolution calling on the Department of Transportation to make a survey to see if speed limits could be lowered. Supervisor Richard Glazer also suggested that the group submit a petition directly to DOT supporting the board's action.

A man who asked why a neighbor with a $25,000 home was being taxed at exactly the same rate as he was for a mobile home touched off a long discussion on reassessment, now going on in the town.

Councilman Karl Strobel said it was caused because assessors were changing values as they went along instead of waiting for the entire town to be reassessed before making changes. He said the reassessment was about 40 per cent complete after two years.

Glazer disputed the figure, saying reassessment was 60 to 70 per cent complete, and saying that assessors were required to make changes as they went along. He praised assessors for their work and said there was a good chance that reassessment would be completed by next year.

County Legislator Glenn Debrosky told the board he intended to vote against Resolution 201 at tonight's meeting of the Legislature. He said the resolution would delay Kingston city taxes to the county without any benefit to taxpayers and that it would deprive the county of interest that could be had by putting the money on deposit. He asked the town board for a resolution supporting him.

Board members were reluctant to vote on it at first, saying it was short notice for an important matter. Later they passed the resolution by a 4-1 vote, with Glazer dissenting because he said he didn't want to vote for something he knew so little about.

Another group, from the Whitesport Road area, asked the board's help in getting a feeder school bus run restored for their children, saying the road was narrow, dangerous, and poorly lighted. Glazer said he had contacted the Kingston School District about restoring the feeder run but had not received an answer yet.

The board approved a new five year contract with the Bloomington Fire District calling for payment of $8,500 the first year, $9,500 the second year, and $10,000 for the remaining three years. The old contract paid $7,500.

The board approved a change from A to R-2 zoning for Rodney Earnest and Associates that will permit them to build a cluster development at DeWitt Lake. The change had been recommended by the Planning Board.

In other action the board accepted the resignation of Lee Comar from the Environmental Commission and set a public hearing on the 1975 budget for 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 6, at the town hall.

Snyder Denies Campaign Charges

SAUGERTIES

Charging that misinformation is being given to the public by Sheriff William B. Martin and his associates "in their attempts to blame others for the inept operation of his department," County Legislattor Clifford W. Snyder (R-Dist. 1) today denied that legislature Sheriff's Committee, which he chairs, has failed to cooperate with the sheriff.

Snyder said he has "at all times" maintained open lines of communication between the bipartisan Sheriff's Committee and the sheriff.

"The sheriff is notified of the meetings of the committee, but seldom attends," Snyder said.

At a Tuesday press conference attended only by Martin's campaign manager A. Michael Schovel and the Freeman, Schovel criticized the Sheriff's Committee for not cooperating with the incumbent.

"I definitely don't think there has been enough cooperation between the Sheriff's Committee and the sheriff," Schovel said. "It is very seldom that he (Martin) has been called in (before the committee) where he could discuss his problems."

Snyder said he was "surprised by the reckless accusations of the Sheriff and his associates because in the past, Martin has always indicated that there was excellent cooperation between him and the committee."

Emphasizing that by law the Ulster County Legislature has no jurisdiction or control over the administration of the Sheriff's Department, Snyder said, "The Ulster County Sheriff is the highest elected executive officer in the county and is solely responsible for the administration of his department and the jail."

Snyder added that the only legal function of the legislature is to appropriate money for the operation of the department and that this is done after conferring with the sheriff. "Sheriff Martin's most recent problem is his failure to live within his budget," Synder siad.

Noting that a campaign is underway, Snyder said it seems Martin wants to blame someone else for his problems. "There is a credibility gap between what the sheriff claims and what the facts are," he charged.

"Martin claims he's not a politician, but his desperate search for a scapegoat for his poor performance is the usual technique of a master politician," Snyder concluded.

Pollution Deadline for City

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Five years ago the city of Kingston was ordered to build a sewage treatment plant to cleanup some 98 per cent of its sewage which the state said was polluting the Rondout Creek.

Wednesday morning the other shoe dropped with federal officials giving the city until next April 1 to complete a survey aimed at cutting off polluting discharge of the other two per cent.

That two per cent — officials figure it's actually a good deal less — is located along the Rondout Creek. Back in 1962 city officials and their consulting engineers figured it wasn't economically feasible to invest perhaps hundreds of thousands of dollars for a series of pumping stations along the Rondout to carry the sewage up to the city sewage plant, located above the creek on the Strand.

"We'll be surveying everything from Wilbur to Ponckhockie," said Mayor Francis R. Koenig, who hosted the meeting of the county, federal and city officials at his office in city hall.

The meeting was called ostensibly as a result of a complaint by the County Health Department to the federal Department of Environmental Conservation concerning the Miron Building on East Strand this past summer.

The new owner had routinely applied for a building permit for some renovations and had just as routinely been shuffled through city channels to the plumbing department where it was learned that the buildings sewage system was pumping directly into the Rondout Creek. From there it went to John Power of the county health department and on to John Kwak of DEC regional office in New Paltz.

Richard H. Struble, associate water pollution control engineer for the state, headquartered at White Plains, put together yesterday's meeting.

The situation, as detailed by Struble, Power, Kwak and Koenig is briefly thus:

The city's sewage treatment facilities were designed back in 1962 at which time federal/state pollution laws were a good deal less stringent than now. For instance, the requirement on removal of effluent then was only 65 per cent. The 1972 law requires 85 per cent. In 1962 a municipality was allowed to exclude up to five per cent of its effluent; no exclusions are allowed now.

On paper, Kingston is excluding two per cent, but those figures go back to 1962 before the urban renewal program wiped out Rondout. Officials have no idea what the actual percentage is now but estimate it at below one per cent, in any event, extremely low.

Still, the new law forbids any unauthorized dumping into streams and Kingston will have to comply.

Koenig said the survey will be carried out by the city's plumbing department, headed by Charles J. Kelly, the plumbing inspector.

DEC officials pointed out that if a building is dumping into a city sewer which in turn dumps into the creek, then the city is responsible. The exception is what DEC refers to as "industrial waste." In that case, the originator of the pollution becomes the offender.

DEC officials said there would be no financial assistance available for individuals—"We don't fund individuals," said Struble — but that it might be available to Kingston as a municipalities—"we only fund municipalities," said Struble.

Kingston, however, has no choice in the matter, unlike pre-1972 when a small percentage of the city was omitted from the sewage plant because of "economic reasons."

There was a bright note, however.

The city's $3.3 million secondary sewage treatment plant on the Strand, which was designed prior to the new (85 per cent) federal requirements, is removing 90 per cent of objectionable effluents. "The city's plant will probably meet requirements," said Struble.

OLIVE Seeking Injunction

WEST SHOKAN

Members of OLIVE, citing the fact that the contractor for the proposed Butternut Knolls subdivision off Turner Lane has already started construction on an access road to his project, despite the fact the Town Board has yet to make a final determination on the project, will seek a court ordered injunction this week against further construction of the road.

Hugh J. Kelly served as spokesman for OLIVE (Olive Landowners Interested in a Viable Environment) which strongly protested the building of the road by Valdus Pridans of Long Island, the would-be developer of Butternut Knolls. Kelly said that Pridans was "working overtime" in order to complete the road. "Apparently he figures that once he has the road in, the town will have to go along with his proposal," Kelly told the Freeman. Kelly noted, however, that town law allows the construction of the road, "despite the fact that in about 90 per cent of the other towns in the state construction of any kind can't begin without town approval." Thus, OLIVE is seeking court action. Kingston attorney S. James Matthews represents OLIVE while John Lynch is the town attorney for the town of Olive.

Tuesday night's public hearing, attended by about 90 persons, was the third in a series on Butternut Knolls. The first was challenged as "illegal" by OLIVE, the second was a hearing on preliminary plans and Tuesday night's was on final plans.

Planning Board Chairman Arthur Sampson said the board would reserve decision on the matter. He noted the board had 45 days from the time of the hearing to make a decision. He said he was not committing himself "until such time as we can review and weigh all the facts."

The original proposal was to build 38 homes on 36 acres on what was once the Timmerman Estate. The contractor later reduced the number of homes to 19.

Protest from OLIVE has centered around the access road, which OLIVE claims is an illegal "dead-end" street and "conflict of interest" surrounding principals in the project.

OLIVE contends that town law forbids a dead-end street of more than 1,200 feet — the contractor's road would be in excess of 2,000 — but Town Attorney Lynch says the street is not dead-end because it has a "loop" at one end. OLIVE counters by pointing out there is still only one exit (or entrance, it is the same road) onto Turner Lane, a 12-foot wide "secondary road."

As for alleged "conflict of interest," Kelly contends there is a "very unpleasant situation" involving the Kingston law firm of St. John, Rodner and Bell, which he said was the executor of the Timmerman Estate, which now represents the builder. "As executor, St. John arranged the sale of the land to the builder and he now represents the builder," Kelly charged last night. "The builder said Ulster Savings (of which Howard S. John is president) put up the construction money for his homes."

Kelly also said that St. John sold the land to the builder for less than what he termed "the asking price when it was first offered." Kelly said the asking price in the fall of 1972 was $106,000 for a house and 28 acres of land. He said it was sold in the spring of last year for $75,000.

Kelly also contends there is a conflict between Richard Anthony, recently made a partner in St John, Ronder and Bell, serving as attorney for the interim zoning commission and his relationship with the law firm. Town officials say there is no basis for conflict of interest in any of Kelly's allegations.

MAN-OF-YEAR — Ralph Caso, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor (L) has been named "1974 Man of the Year" by the New York State Association of County and Regional Environmental Management Councils. The Nassau County Executive is shown accepting the award from George Melrose of Erie County, vice president of the association, as Caso's wife, Grace looks on. Caso was cited for his many accomplishments in the environmental area. The award was presented at the association's seminar at the Concord Hotel at Kiamesha Lake.

Cooke Favors Testimony Law

ALBANY

Legislation which would prohibit defense attorneys from raising irrelevant details of a rape victim's prior sexual activity at a trial has been called for by Appellate Division Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello who is a candidate for the Court of Appeals.

Judge Cooke emphasized the need to balance the rights of the defendant against the interests of society and the rights of the victim.

"This proscription against cross-examining a rape victim about her prior sexual activity should apply unless such activity involved the defendant himself," Judge Cooke said. "In this manner, the defendant will have a fair opportunity to produce any evidence legitimately relevant on the issue of consent, and at the same time, the victim of the rape will be spared the needless humiliation which often results from publicizing remote and irrelevant details of her private life," he said.

Judge Cooke, who has served on four state and county benches for more than 20 years, is a Democratic nominee for one of two vacancies on the Court of Appeals in the general election — Nov. 5. Also vying for election to the Court of Appeals is Democrat Jacob Fuchsberg. Republican nominees, Louis M. Greenblott and Harold Stevens; Conservative Henry S. Middendorf Jr. and Free Libertarians Jack A. Martin and Melvin S. Hirshowitz.

Criminal laws regarding rape "have had little or no deterrent effect," Judge Cooke said citing statistics that showed that in 1971 there were 2,415 rape complaints in New York City, and of that number only 100 were presented to grand juries, resulting in 34 indictments and only 18 convictions.

"There are far too many disincentives to reporting the occurence of the crime," he said, "and as a result only a fraction of the rapes actually committed are brought to the attention of the law enforcement authorities. Thus, the sanctions of the criminal law are never invoked in the majority of instances of rape. Second, in cases which were reported, the requirement of strict corroborating proof often rendered the prosecution futile, thereby adding a major disincentive to making the charge in the first place," he said.

Judge Cooke cited the rule which permits the defendant's attorney to conduct "a probing and intensely personal investigation of the victim's prior sexual history with a view to establishing the likelihood of her consent to the sexual relation to the defendant" as the foremost disincentiv to reporting of rapes.

"Rape victims shudder at the excruciating experience to which they frequently are subjected on the witness stand, to the extent that the victim is often made to feel as though it is her life, recent and remote, that is on trial," he said.

Judge Cooke assailed a 136-year-old precedent in the law that held that it was "common knowledge" that a woman who has once consented to intimacy with anyone is more likely to consent to similar relations with another than a woman who has never "lapsed from virtue."

"The fallacy with this line of thinking is that it denies women the right to determine freely with whom they will associate," Judge Cooke said. "Does it necessarily follow that, because a woman has formed an intimate relationship with one man, she would consent to a similar relationship with another who is a stranger to her? Of course not. Indeed, the fact that a woman is involved in a close relationship with one man would normally indicate that she would be quite reluctant to enter into casual intimacies with a stranger or even someone else," he concluded.

Sala Pledges Full-Time Service

POUGHKEEPSIE

"Operating the State Legislature on a part-time basis is a luxury which residents of the state cannot afford," Peter Sala, Democratic candidate for State Senate in the 39th District charged today.

Commenting on the fact that observers in Albany report that the last days of the annual session are chaotic with legislators snowed under a blizzard of last minute bills, Sala suggests that many legislators were seen voting on measures which they not only did not have time to weigh intelligently, but did not have time to read.

"It may be that this kind of legislature was acceptable in the horse and buggy days, but it is certainly not acceptable today in the face of the multitude of problems facing citizens of the Empire State, problems for which only government can provide solutions," Sala said.

The candidate is seeking the seat now held by Republican incumbent State Sen. Jay P. Rolison.

Sala said that the time limit imposed upon the legislative session results in a law-making process which operates "virtually in secrecy". Due to the shortness of the session, he said, so-called committee hearings do not serve the purpose which they are designed, — to give the public an opportunity to testify on key matters and to permit the testimony of experts to be taken.

Furthermore, Sala said, legislators today receive salaries commensurate with their positions, so it can no longer be claimed that they cannot afford to be full-time public servants — and nothing else.

"Keep this in mind when you choose your senator this year," Sala suggested, pledging to give full-time services when elected. "I will have no commercial interests, no outside profession or calling, and will devote my full-time energies to serving my constituents," he promised.

Sala said that "the mere prolonging of the legislative session alone will not insure more representative government, although it is vital that the obsolete part-time legislature be relegated to the museum with other relics of the past. The only way in which true representation can be achieved is by electing a candidate who has nothing but the public interest uppermost in his mind," he said.

"I submit that anyone who has the ability, the desire and the will to serve his constituents properly, will in fact do so if given the opportunity to be a full-time state senator.

Paper Bans Pro-Abortion Advertising

WASHINGTONVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The Orange County Post, a small weekly newspaper here, has banned news coverage or advertising about political candidates who favor abortion.

Elmer J. Spear, publisher, said Tuesday that the policy means that the paper will give news coverage only to Thomas Moore, the Conservative Party candidate in a three-way congressional race in the district.

The decision will also cost the newspaper about half of its advertising revenue between now and the Nov. 5 election, according to Spear, an enrolled Conservative. He has been publisher for the last 30 years of the newspaper, which has a circulation of 2,000.

Spear's son John, the editor, wrote last Thursday on the editorial page, "I and the members of the staff still firmly believe in God."

The elder Spear said he and his son, who are Roman Catholics, made their decision because "we believe people are killing people."

He described the other two candidates in the congressional race, incumbent Republican Rep. Benjamin Gilman and former Rep. John Dow, the Democrat, as "anti-life."

The publisher said that in the past the paper's policy has been a general attempt to give equal space to opponents in elections.

A spokesman for the American Newspaper Publishers Association in Reston, Va. called the Post's new policy "absolutely horrendous and unprecedented."

Candidates Forum Sunday

ELLENVILLE

A Candidates Forum, sponsored by the Concerned Consumers, and featuring the appearance of the two candidates in the race for the 101st Assembly District seat, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Music Room of the Ellenville Central School.

Among those who have said they will appear, according to the consumers group, are incumbent Republican Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, and Maurice Hinchey, his Democratic opponent in the 101st District.

Also saying they would appear are Alex J. Nirenberg, Democratic candidate for the State Senate, and Frank Resseguie, Conservative Candidate for Congress from the 27th District.

Alfred J. Libous, the Republican candidate in the 27th Congressional District, has said he cannot attend, and has asked that a questionnaire be submitted to him, with his responses to it publicly read. Edwyn E. Mason, the Republican incumbent in the 48th State Senatorial District will send a representative, and Nirenberg's opponent, has indicated he cannot attend, but A question and answer session for the audience will be held.

Mason Aide To Speak

HIGH FALLS

Benjamin Schecter, aide to State Senator Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.), will be the guest speaker at the Tuesday, Oct. 15 meeting of the Town of Marbletown Republican Club.

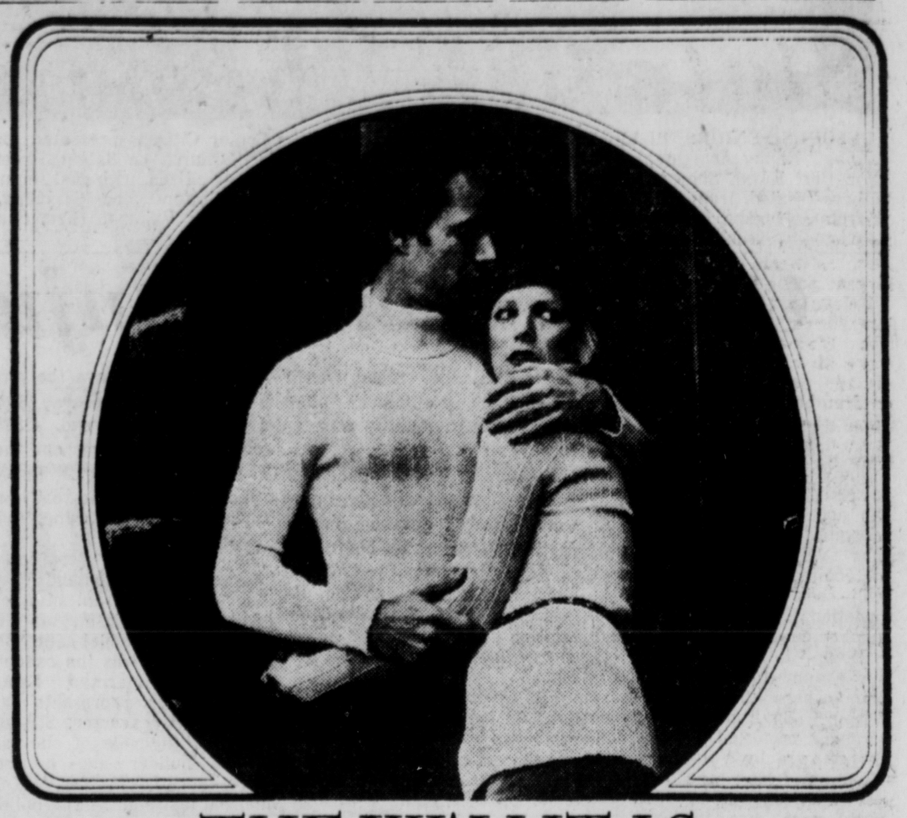

Schecter will present a program entitled "Profiles of a New York State Senator," dealing with Mason's experiences and accomplishments in state government.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. on Tuesday at the Rock Cliff House on Route 213 in High Falls. The meeting is open to club members and the public.

Mason is a candidate for reelection this year. His opponent for the 48th District seat is Democrat Alex Nirenberg of Ellenville.

A resident of Kingston, Schecter has long been involved in civic and political affairs.

Rocky's Gifts to Former Aides

'Nothing Improper,' – Ford Tells Press

WASHINGTON (U P I) — President Ford says he has found nothing improper in vice presidential nominee Nelson Rockefeller's cash gifts to former aides, including $50,000 to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Rockefeller will make a complete explanation of the gifts —which totaled more than $800,000 —in a statement to be delivered today to the Senate Rules Coommitee. The statement will eventually be made public.

Ford told a news conference Wednesday he had the Kissinger gift investigated and was assured "every tax that could be applied has been paid and that all legal problems involving that particular case were solved satisfactorily."

"Under those circumstances, I do not think there was any impropriety in the relationship between Dr Kissinger and Gov. Rockefeller," he said.

Ford said he had inquired to a lesser extent about two other major gifts Rockefeller made to former aides and said, "I assume in those cases, as I found out in the Dr. Kissinger case, that the law had been adhered to and that there was no impropriety."

"I think to put this in proper perspective you have to recognize that Gov. Rockefeller is a very wealthy man and that he has been extremely generous with many, many charities over a good many years," Ford said.

"And he obviously has sought to compensate former employes or friends for whatever services they've performed."

Rockefeller gave Kissinger the funds when Kissinger resigned as foreign affairs advisor to the former New York governor to accept a similar post in the Nixon Administration.

The Rules Committee in a brief meeting earlier had authorized chairman Howard Cannon, D-Nev., to request an explanation of gifts the multi-millionaire made to past or present aides.

Rockefeller's press secretary Hugh Morrow said in New York the former governor would give a "full and complete explanation."

In addition to Kissinger, the gifts included $550,000 to William J. Ronan, once his chief aide and now head of the New York-New Jersey Port Authority; $100,000 to Morrow and $86,000 to former State Liquor Authority Chairman L. Judson Morhouse, who later was convicted of taking a bribe.

When the gift tax was added, Rockefeller's generosity to aides cost him more than $1 million.

"I don't know whether there's a good explanation for the gifts or not," Cannon told reporters after the meeting. "I must say I have some question in my mind or I wouldn't have asked for a full explanation."

Cannon said he didn't think the gifts constituted a conflict of interest, "but they do raise a question of influence of wealth in a political system on government."

The committee will meet in executive session after the election day recess to determine if Rockefeller should be recalled to explain the gifts at a public hearing.

State CSEA Remaining Neutral

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Malcolm Wilson and Democratic gubernatorial candidate Hugh L. Carey have battled to a draw in efforts to gain the backing of the state's largest public employe union.

Delegates at the Civil Service Employees Association convention Wednesday voted by a more than 2 to 1 margin to remain neutral in the gubernatorial race, thus blunting Carey's efforts to add another union's support to his list of labor backers.

Although the delegates voted for no endorsement, the action was seen by some political observers as a moral victory for Wilson because his campaign aides had not anticipated the CSEA's official blessing.

The unofficial 1,339 to 555 margin by which the delegates agreed to the neutrality stance recommended by the union's Political Action Committee came as a surprise to some CSEA sources.

They said that there had been efforts by Carey supporters to work up a groundswell of backing for the seven-term Brooklyn congressman, which in turn could be translated into either a rank-and-file endorsement or a close fight on neutrality.

Carey won the endorsement of the state AFl-CIO last week, drawing more than 70 per cent of the delegate vote even though the group's executive committee was nearly evenly split between Wilson and Carey.

The CSEA, which has a membership of about 215,000 state and local government workers and represents nearly 300,000 governmental employes in all, has never endorsed a statewide candidate. The union does suggest endorsements of State Senate and Assembly candidates. They will be made public in the near future.

In recommending neutrality, Victor Pesci, chairman of the Political Action Committee, said it had been decided the "advantages of endorsement would be minimal."

Delegates favoring the no-endorsement policy noted that the CSEA will have to negotiate directly with the eventual winner of the gubernatorial race, a problem not faced by other unions, in the private sector or in local governments.

Delegates arguing against the neutrality stand repeatedly claimed that the CSEA "should act like a union and take a stand."

The debate on the neutrality resolution took about an hour, but the voting was orderly and without any noticeable signs of division.

Carey and Wilson addressed the delegates before the neutrality stand. Carey, who appeared to receive louder and more sustained applause than the Republican governor, bluntly asked the union for support.

"I ask for your support the way candidates for office are supposed to seek support —not in back room meetings, but openly," Carey said.

Wilson did not actually ask for an endorsement during his talk.

Both candidates said they favored some sort of an "agency" shop arrangement whereby governmental employes represented by the union but choosing not to be members would have to pay some kind of fee or dues for representation.

Wilson told the delegates "some method must be established by law" to "allow a charge for services rendered." He said he would work to obtain such a law.

Carey said that Michigan now placed fees from represented non-union members into college scholarship funds and suggested that was one method that might be considered.

Wilson came out flatly against strikes by public employes but said he would work for "equality across the bargaining table" to impose penalties against public employers "who fail to bargain in good faith."

Carey said he opposed strikes by law enforcement or public safety officers and other "essential" public employes, but indicated some types of government job holders should have the right to strike.

All Charges Are Dismissed Against Attica Defendant

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Prosecution and defense attorneys were considering future actions today in the wake of Supreme Court Justice Frank R. Bayger's dismissal of all charges in the first Attica prison riot trial.

Charles Bradley, a special assistant attorney general, said the prosecution is considering an appeal of Bayger's dismissal of charges against Willie Smith, 27, of Buffalo.

Bayger "reluctantly" dismissed two counts each of sodomy and sexual abuse against Smith Wednesday, saying the prosecution "failed to present evidence sufficient to sustain charges."

Bradley said the prosecution was disappointed with Bayger's ruling, but that it would not affect other Attica trials.

However, defense attorney Dennis Cunningham said Smith's case would affect the trials of the 57 men still facing charges in connection with the 1971 riot.

Cunningham, an attorney for the Attica Brothers Legal Defense, said defense attorneys would present a motion concerning evidence in the Attica trials "within a few days."

He said that motion was based on his contention that the Smith case showed the state had destroyed some of the evidence in the Attica cases.

Cunningham also said he thought some other Attica trials might be delayed until "the prosecution gets their nerve together."

Smith's attorney, James Kemp of Rochester, said an investigation should also be held concerning the testimony given during the seven-day trial.

He said prosecution witnesses told substantially different stories during the trial than they had told before the special Wyoming County grand jury that returned the Attica indictments.

"I am very curious about how these enlargements and changes came about," he said.

Cunningham said the dismissal of charges in Smith's case still left an open question concerning what would happen when an Attica trial reached a jury.

Fish Opposed . . .

WASHINGTON, D.C. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.) said today he thinks that President Ford was correct when he stated that the problem of our economy requires more discipline and direction. "He (the President) has outlined for us a specific blueprint for action that involves all Americans working together to solve our most serious domestic crisis in decades," Fish said.

"There were many positive aspects to the President's speech," Fish said, "but I wish to register my opposition to the proposed income tax surcharge. I am most reluctant under any circumstances to impose further taxes on those who are already shouldering a disproportionate share of the overall tax burden — the middle income American.

"It seems to me that our pressing need is not so much for additional revenues as it is for the more prudent use of those funds now coming into the national treasury," he said adding that "at any rate the income levels outlined by the President for the surtax are far too low. I have believed for some time that necessary additional revenues can be more readily gained for closing existing tax loopholes," he suggested.

Angell Also Raps Surtax

GARRISON "President Ford's program to fight inflation isn't tough enough to do the job and is soft on big business at the expense of the middle income earner," according to Democrat candidate for Congress in the 25th District Nicholas B. Angell said today.

"President Ford's proposal for a five per cent surtax on individuals with incomes greater than $7,500 and families with incomes greater than $15,000 is asking those who have already given too much to give more" he said. "When will our leaders have the guts to demand that big businessess and the wealthy pay their fair share?" he asked. "While President Ford directed the five per cent tax also be levied on corporations, he soothed big businesses and the wealthy with a generous liberalization of the investment tax credit and capital gains tax and a corporate tax reduction on preferred tax dividends," Angell said.

"President Ford classified families earning $15,000 a year as part of an 'upper level income group,' in spite of the fact that $12,000 a year is now termed by federal government as a susistance income for a family of four," The Putnam County lawyer said.

"There was not a single indication by the President, of oil companies pricing and profits-the worst villains of inflation. Thus the oil companies can continue as did Texaco for example in 1973 to make $1.3 billion net profits and to pay only 2.2 per cent of those profits as taxes.

Ford's Surtax Proposal

Americans have been asked to bite the bullet and the resultant outcries are as shrill as expected. President Ford's anti-inflation proposal to add a 5 per cent surcharge on taxable income over $15,000 has been termed as another body blow at the already harassed middle class. But these are parlous times and the joint efforts of everyone will be necessary if the consuming dragon of escalating living costs is to be stopped. A higher tax on corporations would be self defeating, stifling any economic expansion and quite probably causing company shutdowns and filling the ranks of the unemployed. Funds also are needed to pump new blood into the stagnant construction industry, and government make-work programs must be financed to handle the large number of Americans who are unemployed.

The President's plan, in fact, is a modest one when compared to the fiscal sacrifices citizens of Israel, Scandinavia and other countries are required to bear. Some experts even feel that Mr. Ford did not go far enough, citing the advisability of an excess profit tax aimed at the oil cartel. But it is a start in what will be a long war to bring this country under economic control again.

Coupled with the energy facets of Mr. Ford's economic strategy, a move at getting our balance of trade payments back in order, this small attempt at sacrifice is preferable to the bitter pill of financial disaster that could await us.

Early Frost No Help

Last spring it rained too much. In summer there was killing drought. To top off this succession of disastrous weather conditions there was early frost. As a result there have been very heavy crop losses in numerous states ranging across the East and Midwest.

The magnitude of the impact is suggested by official reports that the losses due to frosts alone amount to hundreds of millions of dollars. The blow has been felt by growers of a variety of food crops—corn, soybeans, tomatoes, grapes—as well as tobacco.

For example: last spring the Department of Agriculture estimated a corn harvest of 6.1 billion bushels. A combination of late planting due to floods, poor growing conditions in July and August and the early frosts has now led the National Corn Growers Association to predict only a 4.8-billion-bushel harvest. That enormous reduction will seriously hurt the farmer.

In time the impact also will be felt by millions of consumers, who will perforce be paying more for food than they would if Nature had been kinder. Crop damage worsens the already difficult food price situation.

The extent to which prices will be affected by this is hard to determine at this stage. The final reports are not yet in. But the figures on losses make it evident that the adverse effect will be considerable.

'Victimless Crime'

If a prize is offered for the silliest comment on Watergate, Mayor Ralph J. Perk of Cleveland will be right up there in the running. The other day Perk enlivened his campaign for a United States Senate seat by describing the whole Watergate affair as a "victimless crime."

His honor the mayor was not kidding, as witness his elaboration of this remarkable view: "Nobody was hurt. Nothing was stolen. Nothing was damaged."

The fact is that the American people were very badly hurt by this exercise in political espionage and deceit. The fact is that Watergate and the coverup stole a large portion of the public trust in government and elected officials. The fact is that the free electoral process was seriously damaged.

These judgments are almost universally accepted now. It is recognized by the great majority of Americans that we have witnessed a scandal which in the end led to the first presidential resignation in history. Some "victimless crime," Mayor Perk.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Various Voices of the People

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — We have been hearing about America from its people. We asked, you may remember, for a Bicentennial slogan. The response was spontaneous; tens of thousands of citizens from all walks of life have sent us slogans, phrases of poetry expressing how they feel about their country.

Many have written accompanying letters of testimonial. To read them is to understand that the Watergate horrors, economic uncertainties and other afflictions have not shaken the American faith.

Some with a lifetime behind them have written about the turmoil they have seen. Youths looking ahead have written about the challenge of events. We have heard from aliens about the dreams which brought them to this land. Even a few convicts have responded, with a special poignancy, about the meaning of freedom.

Some have applauded President Ford's attempt to return to the White House a humanity and openness more becoming a free republic. Others have taken issue with the President over his decision to pardon Richard Nixon and thus suffocate the legal process to its crib. They reject the idea that the country would be better served by amnesia than by truth.

We received one slogan from an authentic American pioneer, 98-year-old Jesse L. Hall, who was born in the centennial year of 1876. He has spent his long life pushing westwards. He lived through the blizzard of 1887 in a homemade muslin tent on the Nebraska prairie. In Wyoming, he was elected to the state legislature. Now he resides in Reno, Nev.

He summed up his view of America in a simple, three-word slogan: "The Republic Stands."

From cell C-8 in the Florida state penitentiary, Raiford, Fla., Willie Young wrote: "Need I say, my life has been a miserable road to travel. After years of walking it alone, I discovered one must believe in something."

He put his sentiments into these words: "A Country not made by Hand but by the Grace of God and the Will of Man."

There were other poetic responses. "We may stumble but never fall; Down through the years, we still stand tall," wrote Raymond Richardson from Chicago.

A Boalsburg, Pa., teacher, Ruth H. Carter, felt "an extreme need for the children to know their country's heritage." She suggested this slogan: "So the Children Will Know."

In Toledo, Ohio, the second and third grade students at Lincolnshire School composed a slogan together: "I work for Democracy because it works for me.'

Many other children sent in slogans. For instance, a 12-year-old Forest Heights, Md., girl, Mary Elizabeth Henry, proposed: "America, a Homesteaded Heart." And 14-year-old Penny Chandler of Fresno, Calif., sent in this one: "Two Hundred Steps — and More to Come."

Teen-agers, too, responded by the hundreds. From Annapolis, Md., 18-year-old James P. Gough told of his frustration over "recent acts by men in high places." Yet he could still offer two heartfelt slogans: "America, a Theme that is Timeless" and "America, Something Warm that Touched my Heart."

A 19-year-old, Johnny Carter of Long Beach, Calif., suggested this sign be posted across America: "Conquerors and Corruptors Beware. This Nation is the Property of the People."

And a Wilmington, N.C., high school student, Stewart Moshe, submitted this slogan: "There's No Way like the American Way."

From John Lauria of Jacksonville, Fla., we received a simple, sincere motto: "America, Where People are Happy." He added meaningfully: "I should know. I came here in 1903."

Here are a few other offerings selected at random from our mailbag:

Florence A. Tracy Revelle, Ardmore, Okla. — "Pride in our past; Faith in our future; Forward America.'

Lionel Wernick, New York City — "America: The Promise Kept and now Renewed."

George Kelly, Philadelphia, Pa. — "Here Lives a Free People, 1776-1976."

Joseph P. McGoldrick, Jackson Heights, N.Y. — "In America, there are no impossible dreams."

John Klunck, Sheboygan, Wis. — "If we can't get to Heaven, well settle for America."

Jim Felton, Little Rock, Ark. — "America is coming of Age."

William Eric Rohrs, Tacoma, Wash. — "Now, Let's Put It All Together."

Adeline Feinberg, Belmont, Mass. — "Appreciate our Differences."

Louis Ginsberg, Paterson, N.J. — "Take no liberties with liberty."

J. K. Smith, Salt Lake City, Utah — "Freedom: 1776, 1976, Forever."

Evelyn Conley, Pittsburgh, Pa. — "USA: Undaunted Stands America."

Ross Doty, Spokane, Wash. — "America, My Country; May She Ever Hold High the Torch of Freedom."

Meanwhile, our search for a Bicentennial slogan continues. Please send your suggestions to Slogans, c-o Jack Anderson, 1401 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

"Say Uncle!"

On the Right

A Competing Pan Am

By William F. Buckley, Jr.

I wrote recently about the plight of Pan American Airways concluding that for all the vicissitudes it has suffered in the past few years, there is no reason now to subsidize it directly out of tax funds, a conclusion from which I have not departed. But fairness certainly demands that Pan Am's case be stated more fully than I, at least, did; and that we draw from it those lessons we should about what tends to happen when the United States government attempts to regulate commerce. It almost never fails in achieving a result approximately the opposite of what it set out to achieve.

First there is the question of the mismanagement of Pan Am. There appears to be little doubt that Pan Am made some serious miscalculations, in the late sixties in particular. But the situation seems to have turned around, and now Pan Am is leading on one of the important scales, namely Productivity (in Revenue Ton Miles) Per Employe. In 1972, Pan Am led the list with 95.5. TWA was second with 86. Way over at the other end, you find Lufthansa (51), and Air France and Quantas (42).

These figures suggest the productivity of the personnel of Pan Am, and suggest that even though a Pan Am pilot gets paid over twice what his counterpart in Quantas is paid, nevertheless when the figures are all sorted out, the per employe productivity is higher. Caution: It could mean, though this is not here alleged, the service is pro tanto poorer.

Here is another index. A comparison of operating expenses to Revenue Ton Miles. Once again, Pan Am leads with 40.1 cents per mile. Next is Northwest with 42.1 cents per mile; way down (among American carriers) is Eastern, with 63.2 cents per mile. The obvious explanation for this is that Pan Am makes fewer stops per trip. I don't have the figures, but I'd guess that every time a Pan Am plane takes off, it is in the air two or three times as long as one of Eastern's, and of course I am talking about scheduled landings, not those unscheduled landings, by which I refer to that strange, though happily brief, affinity Pan Am planes developed for a while for those volcanoes in the area of Pago Pago.

We get then, to the discouraging datum. Pan Am's operating revenue per ton mile is about the lowest — 40 cents. (Compare Delta's 63.8 cents.)

What burns the Pan Am people up is that their is not a failure of capitalism — or so they contend. Given the management and cost figures above, they would appear to be making a good argument. Most of the airlines they compete with are at least 50 per cent government owned. And, as we all know, Pan Am, which services a huge country of inveterate travelers, isn't allowed to organize a gathering system, so that one might fly, say, on the same plane from Denver, to Chicago to London.

But the fact the least emphasized in the bureaucratic tangle is the kind of help given to the competing airlines. Now one would expect that the Chancellor of the Exchequer would do something for BOAC he wouldn't do for TWA. But 500 million dollars for the purchase of new equipment (primarily the Concorde) is a whale of a subvention. Then there are the little harassments. In many foreign countries, when you go to buy a ticket on Pan Am to go home the little lady at the national tourist office refuses to accept payment unless you have a license to export that many dollars, which licenses are in some places a real nuisance to get.

But what about help for foreign airlines from U.S. institutions? The Export-Import Bank, substantially one of our creations, makes loans to foreign governments for the purchase of U.S. aircraft at rates that are exaggeratedly below those our poor people have to pay. Recently, six per cent versus 1/ per cent. That makes a difference of as much as seven million bucks for a Boeing 747. We subsidize foreign buying of U.S. products at a specially low rate and, for our pains, bring on yet another economic crisis.

The trouble with direct subventions is you just get deeper into the business. The way to travel is in the opposite direction. Let Pan Am drop its unprofitable routes. Let it set its own fares. Let it pick up passengers in the States. It says it's willing to compete, and should be given a try.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

No Chance for a Fair Trial

WASHINGTON — Whoever it was who spit on John Ehrlichman as that once powerful man was going into the courthouse for his trial, did us a favor. He provided us with the occasion to ask ourselves what we think we are doing by prosecuting Ehrlichman and his four fellow defendants.

We can say we're serving the ends of justice, but there is a vile aroma about these proceedings, a smell not unlike the one that was around the Federal court building where Judge Julius Hoffman was attempting his judicial lynching of the "Chicago Seven." Flare your nostrils and you'll get a whiff of the Berrigan and Ellsberg trials. We seem to be doing to Mitchell, Ehrlichman, Haldeman and the other two what we accused them of doing not very long ago.

They're being made to stand trial in Washington, the city that is most inflamed against them. And, in John Sirica, we're allowing them to be judged by the one man on the Federal bench who, given the part he has played in this whole affair, must believe they're guilty as sin. This is not to say that Mr. Sirica didn't do some good and fine things, but his time is past.

We're charging these five men with violating the conspiracy statute. This was the very device that they used again and again to prosecute their political enemies.

Under the conspiracy law there is no end of hearsay junk that can be admitted in evidence. It allows a jury to find one man guilty on the basis of an act committed by another. The law is an invitation to the bizarre perversion of justice in which a defendant can be acquitted of attempting to rob a bank but convicted of conspiring to do so.

It is hard to believe it has any place in ordinary criminal prosecutions, but its use in cases with political overtones is frightening. Ehrlichman and company have no chance for a fair trial. President Ford would have served us better had he pardoned these five along with Mr. Nixon.

One part of wisdom is to recognize when you can't do something. The nature of the crimes the five are accused of is so inextricably bound up with noncriminal, political offenses there is no way we can separate the two. This is a case that can't be equitably adjudicated, so what we must do is either lynch them or let them go.

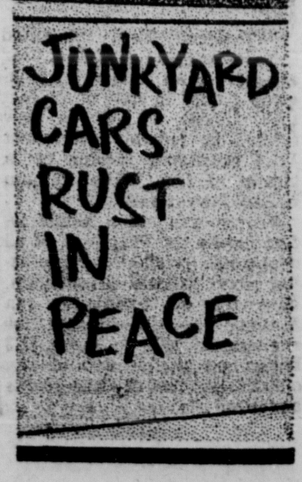

Not that letting them go would save them from punishment. Look at the ghoulish performance of media, politicians and part of the public in regard to Mr. Nixon. The camera crew stakeouts at the hospital, the indignant editorializing, the righteous posturing and the pursuing of a person who no longer has the power to help or hurt anyone. Stoning Richard Nixon to death will not expiate our folly in having twice elected him; it will confirm it.

The 535 Forgettables who make up the membership of Congress have turned themselves into a metaphorical mob over their debates about how many maids and butlers the invalided, old man of San Clemente is to be permitted. Ten, five, two or none, his staff is slashed with dubious courage by the same legislators who were warned for years that the Nixon White House entourage had grown to a point where it not only offended the sumptuary standards of a Republic but the health of our political processes. In that period, however, our Congressional heroes were too chicken to lop off one Presidential limousine from the budget. Now in a time of economic crises which will shortly become excruciating, they spend their days pulling wings off flies. Whether or not discussing the salary of Richard Nixon's chauffeur is the only public issue they have brains to comprehend, the exercise is as ignoble as it is frivolous against a national backdrop of apprehension about what is to become of us.

Perhaps thinking up new ways to bedevil a harmless political has-been is to distract us from noticing their inability to challenge clear and present-day menaces like Nelson Rockefeller. What they tell us, with an obliging obligato from the ordained moralists of the media, is that they occupy themselves in these activities to see justice is done and that a historical record of these sad days is preserved. Their ideas of justice dovetail too smoothly with their political interest in turning us from citizens into a disorderly crowd. And as for their talk against pardons and in favor of trials so that future generations can read about Watergate, it's not our job to write history, but to make it.

To punish Richard Nixon or his associates any further demands our becoming like them. Let's pick on another ex-President. What about giving it to Chester A. Arthur? There's a guy who's really gotten away with it for years.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS SPREAD WILSON'S MESSAGE

Job Insurance for Youth Suggested

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Young Kingston High School student John VanBrink has what three State Young Republicans felt was a "great idea" Wednesday and they will take that idea back to Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

The 16-year-old student was among a group sitting on the wall outside school when Wilson's bandwagon rolled into town in the afternoon with young Republicans aboard to carry the governor's message as well as a list of his accomplishments to the people in the smaller populated areas which Wilson can't always reach during his campaign.

Dan Silverstein, one of the governor's young workers told VanBrink and others that gathered around that during 1974 two new age of majority measures were enacted giving new legal rights for 18, 19 and 20-year olds.

"I'm not 18, 19 or 20," Van Brink said. "I'm 16 and I don't know how the governor can help me."

He said he wants to see unemployment insurance for 16-year-olds who go to school, work and pay for some of their meals and clothes.

"I've been working since I was 14," he said, adding that if he should get laid off, any funds he might be earning toward college would be lost.

"Everybody feels maturity comes with age," he said, adding that he "has seen some pretty big 40-year-old babies."

Maturity depends upon ability, not age, he suggested, adding that a person doesn't necessarily start becoming an adult at 18. "You start paying taxes the minute you get a job," he said.

Silverstein, Bill Clarke and Pat Sullivan, Wilson workers, told VanBrink he had a good idea and suggested that he write to his assemblyman and state senator and make his suggestions further known.

The young men also talked with older students who posed such questions as "How come I can't take a class in shop, just because I'm a girl."

Again Silverstein told of the governor's efforts in securing rights for young people in education, signing legislation that is non-discriminatory.

Two other young girls seemed interested in what was going on but couldn't answer questions such as who their mayor or assemblymen are.

Asked if they were registered to vote, they said they were only 17 but that they "never thought much about voting."

Asked how young people in general were reacting to the Republican bandwagon, Silverstein explained that the governor "tells people exactly where it's at and sometimes young people sit and bristle but they appreciate the honesty.

One student said he was against study halls because "no one studies." Silverstein suggested it was a matter for the board of education and school administration adding, with a smile, "I'm not sure the governor has a position on study halls."

The Young Republicans said they are working for Wilson because "of the very substantive progress he has made."

They cited advances in agriculture such as the protection of a million acres of farmland; in reduction of state taxes which which were reduced $138 million in 1974 and advances in combating crime and improving the administration of justice through speedier trials, increased payments to crime victims, reinstatement of the death penalty and fighting drug abuse.

They told of the establishment of the Little Hoover Commision which will make recommendations for greater efficiency and economy in state government, increased per-pupil support and recognition of non-public school student needs.

Other advances in 1974 include environmental protection, improved health care, human rights, jobs and economic opportunity with new tax relief for small businesses. Also increased assistance to local government and property tax relief authority for senior citizens.

Area Candidates at 'Round Table'

By TIM SCHUSTER

SAUGERTIES

Ten of a possible 12 candidates for county, state and national office addressed more than 100 persons in an unusual format at the Saugerties League of Women Voters Candidates Night Wednesday.

Prior to gathering together at the head table for brief speeches the candidates rotated from one small group to another,giving the six or eight persons at each table a five-minute chance to converse with each candidate.

Those who participated were Nicholas Angell Democrat, and Sanford Cohen, Free Libertarian, both running for Congress in the 25th District opposing GOP incumbent Hamilton Fish Jr. Alex Nirenberg, 48th State Senatorial District candidate; H. Clark Bell, GOP incumbent, Maurice Hinchey, Democratic challenger for the 101st State Assembly District; three Ulster County Sheriff candidates William Martin, Thomas Mayone, and Yvonne Walliser; and Richard Buono and William Freer for Ulster County Coroner.

While posing something of a tactical problem for reporters, who could hear only a slice of each candidate's give and take, the round table discussion format was almost universally acclaimed at the end of the night.

Some typical comments follow: Angell — he outlined "two basic problems," that the political system and economic systems are not working. He claimed we do not have a representative form of government. Angell noted that 95 per cent of the incumbents running for office in the past 25 years have been re-elected. And he scored President Ford's economic program as "going after the middle income group."

Cohen said, "I don't want to do a thing for you," claiming that "government has caused every crisis we now have" and "government is for sale." He also called for ending subsidies to business, labor, and agriculture. Cohen claimed too government has no solutions to inflation except "that you should sacrifice," and he warned concerning politicians, "Don't give us too much power."

Nirenberg, a Democrat, said he felt the Republican incumbent (Senator Edwyn Mason) has "ignored the people of Ulster County," pledging representation. He proposed a "net worth tax" to fund education; stated that the Equal Rights Amendment should not be necessary under the Consitution; protested the long wait for a Sunshine Bill in the state; and said that "politicians make inflation, not the people." Nirenberg said he has not yet had the opportunity to meet in debate with his opponent.

Bell said he had found that people were "turned off" to politics, citing apathy in the county, and he warned against "painting everyone with one brush." On crime, he said that "in some respects the courts and judges have been too lenient," advocating removal of the "career criminal" from society. Bell said he did not think the new drug law was working "the way it could," but said it needed from 36 to 48 months before a definite opinion could be formed.

Hinchey made three basic points: a call for "zero based budgeting" in state government, making every department start its budget from scratch each year; a need for property tax relief through the "circuit breaker" technique for a more equitable distribution; and need for legislative reform to shift power from the governor and leaders of both houses to a broader base. On inflation he advocated making the Public Service Commission more responsive through audits, and he called the state "authorities" a "fourth branch of government."

Martin stated his qualifications as a law enforcement officer, saying he had taken the office of sheriff out of political control. He said that there was much cooperation among the police agencies in Ulster County, including his own, and cited the difficulty in instituting meaningful rehabilitation programs in the county jail due to the relatively short stay of most inmates. He said that deputies were starting to organize to submit a proposal to the county legislature asking for better salaries. Martin said he would rather see the state commission hearing before election day to dispell doubt.

Mayone said that cooperation exists among all agencies except the Sheriff's Office and pointed to his 26 years experience as a law enforcement officer locally. He said a deputy starts at $6,300 a year, but added that he did not think that salaries per se were the reason people were leaving that job as "all county employees are underpaid." Mayone said that Dr. Benjamin Roosa of BOCES had told him that federally funded rehabilitation programs, on short term, could be implemented in the jail.

Mrs. Walliser said the criminal was the "prototype of the illness of our society," and said that inmate rehabilitation should be continued once the prisoner has been released. She said of women, "We are half the population, but we have little voice in government," and pointed to the "90 per cent recidivism" in the county jail as evidence rehabilitation is needed.

Freer said he was not in favor of a county medical examiner system as it would cost too much, and said there was a "good case for conflict of interest" in having bodies wind up in funeral homes of coroners.

And Buono said the coroner's hours per year are going down because of the lower speed limit, resulting in fewer auto accidents, and usually number between 700 and 1,000 hours. There are three coroners in Ulster County.

Paltz Dean Authors Book

NEW PALTZ

The phrase "power struggle" is common today in politics, international affairs, and labor management relations. It also is present, according to Dr. Mario Fantini, in the operation of public schools.

Fantini, dean of the Faculty of Education at the State University College at New Paltz, is the author of the new book What's Best for the Children? The book, subtitled Resolving the Power Struggle Between Parents and Teachers, was published Sept. 20 by Anchor Press.

"Parents, teachers and administrators," Fantini says, "are caught in a crossfire between internal forces such as unruly students, poor salaries and working conditions, and external forces such as community groups, angry parents and state legislatures. I am trying to show what a dysfunctiona' system does to people, including teachers: my plea is to get teachers to break out of the box imposed by an obsolete structure by joining with students and parents in the remaking of public schools."

Fantini, author of several books on modern school problems, adds "The irony is that teachers, parents and students — those closest to the learning front and major colleagues in the quest for human growth — are blaming one another and not the outmoded system in a war over control of the public schools. Together they could wield enormous power for cooperative reform . . ."

Before coming to New Paltz, the dean was assistant to the director of the Fund for Education at the Ford Foundation and was involved with many of the innovative programs in schools around the nation today. He was co-author of the Bundy plan for New York City school decentralization.

Fantini's other books include Community Involvement and School Reform and Decentralization: Achieving Reform, both co-authored with Marilyn Gittell; Making Urban Schools Work, The Disadvantaged, and Toward Humanistic Education, co-authored with Gerald Weinstein, and Public Schools of Choice.

Extension Is Approved

PORT EWEN

The Town of Esopus has received state approval to extend the Port Ewen Water District south to the boundaries of Mirror Lake.

Supervisor George Freer said that approval by the Bureau of Audit and Control and the State Board of Health means that the district's pipe system can be extended, new water storage tanks built, and new inlets installed at the district's plant on the Hudson River.

The approval means that the water district will be able to serve the large Aero Lake Housing development now under construction, with about 170 of 684 proposed units completed to date. The town will open bids on the project on Oct. 23.

The board accepted the resignation of Town Assessor William Zacher, effective Jan. 1, 1975. Zacher said that inability to get help for his private insurance agency in Rifton made it necessary for him to give up the assessor's post. He had told the board earlier this year of his intention to resign and the board had named Sterling Potter to assist him. Freer said that Potter is now the leading candidate for the post.

The town has made application for an exclusion that would enable it to sell bonds for the new Port Ewen Sewer District at rates above the limits set by the State Bureau of Audit and Control. Freer said that work would begin as soon as the bonds are sold and bids are let, and that he would work with Richard Griggs, attorney for the Sewer District, and Brinnier and Larios, consulting engineers, on getting 80 per cent federal funding aid for the project.

The town has tentatively set a public information meeting for 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 20, to consider the proposed nuclear power plant in the towns of Esopus and Lloyd. Freer said that representatives of the Atomic and Space Development Authority and the State Power Commission would be present in the town hall to answer questions about the project.

Freer said that the County Highway Department, in answer to a petition by the town, had prohibited parking on several sections of River Road.

Decision Is Reserved in Gun Case

KINGSTON

County Judge Raymond J. Mino reserved decision Wednesday in County Court following a hearing on whether or not the District Attorney's office will be allowed to prosecute alleged New York City Mafia boss Charles Panarella and John Pate on loaded gun charges.

Vogt is fighting a motion to dismiss the charges against Panarella of Staten Island and Pate who were arrested in 1972 in Ulster County. The pair was picked up by federal agents assisted by state police while riding in a vehicle which followed a car carrying Alphonse Persico, brother of Carmine Persico, reputed underworld friend of the Columbo family. Persico was charged at the time with securing a fraudulent loan.

Police searched the car carrying Panarella and Pate and allegedly found two loaded revolvers in the vehicle.

With the pair at the time was a woman named Antoinette Perrotti, who has since died in an auto accident.

Attorney Frank Lopez, who formerly represented Panarella, testified that Ms. Perrotti told him that she saw an unidentified male place the guns in the car before Panarella and Pate entered the vehicle.

Cross examination at the hearing Wednesday revealed that Lopez had not previously communicated with officials about Ms. Perrotti's alleged statement, according to Assistant District Attorney Michael Kavanagh.

Vogt has sought to prosecute the case because federal authorities, who originally asked him to dismiss it so they could prosecute it themselves, failed to prosecute and also failed to notify Vogt that they had dismissed the case.

Watergate Jury Selection, Lengthy Process Nearing End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a hint that some prospective jurors are biased not against the defendants but against the prosecution, the long process to select a jury in the Watergate cover-up trial is nearing an end.

Presiding Judge John J. Sirica's clerk said late Wednesday the judge was "still hopeful" of selecting a jury by Friday. If the selection is complete today or Friday, presumably the jurors would be given the rest of the day to go home and make preparations for being sequestered the expected three to four months of the trial, and opening statements would not begin until Monday.

Sirica has been screening out prospective jurors for seven days, first those who could not be sequestered for that long, then others for cause. After this is completed, peremptory challenges — by which lawyers may eliminate a prospective juror without giving a reason — will be made.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski suggested, in carefully worded brief filed in court Wednesday, that some prospective jurors think it is unfair to prosecute Richard M. Nixon's former aides when the former president himself has been pardoned.

Jaworski said Sirica's granting the defense 15 peremptory challenges while giving the prosecution only six could give the defendants "complete control" in selecting the jury.

Jaworski asked Sirica to erase this "unwarranted advantage" given the defense by employing special procedures when the jury selection reaches the final stage of peremptory challenges.

Three Share Nobel Prize For Medicine

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The 1974 Nobel Prize for Medicine was awarded jointly today to Americans George Emil Palade and Christian de Duve and Belgian Albert Claude, the Swedish Academy of Sciences announced.

The three winners were cited "for their discoveries concerning the structure and functional organization of the cell."

The medicine award was the fourth in a series of six Nobel awards in memory of Alfred Nobel, whose fortune from the invention of dynamite finances the $123,000 awards. Last year's medicine prize was shared by Karl von Frisch of Germany, Konrad Lorenz of Austria and Nikolaas Tinbergen of Great Britain.

Remains of Victims Found in Mob Club

NEW YORK (UPI) — The months-old remains of two apparent victims of gangland slayings were found Wednesday night in the basement of a South Brooklyn Social club.

The FBI, armed with a Federal warrant naming Coney Island crime figure Dominic Sciala, invaded Otto's Social Club early in the evening and began digging in the cellar's dirt floor.

After penetrating some four feet, the diggers unearthed the badly decomposed body of an unidentified man.

Authorities believed him to be Sciala, a high ranking member in the Brooklyn mob who was believed to have disappeared last January.

An inscribed watch and a medallion were discovered along with the body, but police would not disclose the inscription.

Meanwhile, the FBI and police officers continued to dig in the murky basement, and five feet down discovered the bones of another person.

"The first one had bones with the flesh still on them, and the second one was all bones," Capt. Carlton Doncourt said.

The FBI left shortly after the discovery of the first corpse, but police continued to dig, hoping to unearth more bodies. Authorities said the digging would probably continue all night.

Police said the area was considered "Colombo territory" —home of the Mafia family of disabled Joseph Colombo Sr.

Officers said while there used to be "a lot of (organized crime) activity" at the club in years past, it had calmed down in recent years and was not considered a major underworld hangout.

Additional Violations Are Listed

KERHONKSON

The State Attorney General's Office on Wednesday charged the co-directors of Camp Westwood in Kerhonkson with 32 additional violations of the state labor law, bringing to 48 the total number of alleged violations of the labor law which the two men now face.

The 32 additional charges against Sheldon Haas and William Nelson were filed in Rochester Town Court where the two men appeared for a hearing on previous charges.

The charges stem from the alleged failure to pay camp employes when Camp Westwood closed in August.

Both men pleaded innocent to the new charges, and Judge Harold Lipton set bail on Nelson at $40,000 and on Haas at $13,050.

Nelson and Haas are slated to reappear in court Dec. 4.

Nelson previously filed a $17.5 million law suit against Bankers Trust of New York City for allegedly allowing unauthorized withdrawals from the camp's account by Haas.

Haas also faces numerous bad check charges in Rochester Town Court.

Small Rise For Prices In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose only one-tenth of a per cent last month as falling farm prices offset increases in the cost of industrial goods, the government reported today.

The modest September price rise followed near-record increases in July and August. The September increase was the smallest price advance since wholesale prices declined a tenth of a per cent last October.

Consumers still face sharp retail price hikes in the coming months, because of big wholesale price boosts during the summer.

Police Seek Missing Girl

KINGSTON

The parents of a 14-year-old girl missing from her Jansen Avenue residence since Sunday morning have issued a plea, asking anyone who might know the girl's whereabouts to contact Kingston Police.

The missing girl, Ann Ferguson of 145 Jansen Avenue, is described as being five feet three inches tall, weighing 135 pounds, with black eyes and brown hair. She was wearing a blue skirt and dungarees when last seen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fergusen.

Choose the investment program that's

INSURED* with GUARANTEED high interest rates.

Select any of our investment programs (we offer several). Because unlike other types of unguarded investor's packages, our programs are federally insured, and our rates are fully guaranteed.

In unguarded investor's packages there are numerous risks to be considered. You have a chance to realize the rewarding returns you want, of course, but there's at least a real chance that you won't. Corporate setbacks, economic losses at any level, and recessive trends all enter into the ever-changing status of your invested funds' potential drawing power.

Rather than chance these risks and uncertainties, you can choose comfortable investments that fit your growing needs.

With our investment programs you know precisely when your money will grow (each day) and how rapid that growth will be (our Savings Certificate rates are guaranteed and insured up to $20,000) . . . Think things through carefully and we think you'll choose the better investment at Sawyer Savings Bank.

Red Hook Budget Shows '75 Increase

RED HOOK — Red Hook Supervisor Robert Bowman Tuesday night estimated the 1975 town tax increase will be in the ten to twelve per cent range, calling it "holding the line" in our inflationary economy.

The preliminary budget calls for a total 1975 expenditure of $341,000, an increase over 1974 of about $8,500 The amount to be raised by taxes will be increased by about $20 000, or about 15 per cent, to $148,000 with some of that to be absorbed by an increased assessment roll.

He also noted that by the end of 1975 the town expects to be completely debt free, retiring its last bond, and said that this is an accomplishment for a town with an $80 million assessment.

Bowman agreed that federal revenue sharing monies have helped in this respect, as they were used for such one shot items as buying new highway equipment when the town would ordinarily be forced to go into bonded indebtedness or start capital reserve funds.

And he said that this increase, coupled with last year's actual tax decrease in town, was about as tight as the board felt the budget could be drawn without cutting back on services.

Councilman Robert Greig said that people had asked him about the possibility of keeping the town budget down, and he asked them in return exactly where they would cut.

Bowman noted that the expected increase in town real estate taxes was far below what was being forecast in school tax increases and county tax increase (estimated at about 27 per cent).

In other business, the board decided at its regular Tuesday night meeting to set the date Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. for a public hearing on a zoning change request by the Forest Park Country Club.

The request is to change the designation of a parcel of land on Route 9G owned by the corporation from residential-agricultural to highway business, in order that a shopping plaza be built there. The land is south of 9G Lanes, a bowling alley, and north of the service station at the eastern terminus of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge approach.

Bowman said the town board had received reports from town and county planning boards and was awaiting one from the Hudson River Valley Commission. "We expect a crowd for this," he stated.

Bowman also commented that the board is working on drafting its "freedom of information law" and expects to have it ready by the next regular meeting night. Councilman Richard Griffiths said that the town books were, and had been, open to public perusal anyway.

Griffiths is also coordinating the town constable force with the Sheriff's Department and two village police for Halloween.

A report from the Town Recreation Commission stated that 330 girls had participated in the summer softball program, and some requests for expansion of the winter program were being entertained, possibly to include senior citizens.

Bowman said he did not foresee any use of mini-buses in the Red Hook area for senior citizen transportation to shopping areas, as had been discussed at last month's meeting, and added that he did not feel it was advisable to get the town involved in this because it would detract from local business.

The board also appointed Mrs. Marianne Streeter to the Zoning Board of Appeals to replace Mrs. Herman Ross, who submitted her resignation.

And the board accepted the resignation of Harold Hansen from the Visual Environment Commission of the town.

Bridge Revenues Down

KINGSTON — Traffic and revenues on the five Hudson River Bridges operated by the New York State Bridge Authority during the first nine months of 1974 were lower than during the same period in 1973, according to figures compiled by the authority.

Between Jan. 1 and Sept. 30 this year, 16,618,774 vehicles crossed the five spans, a decline of 5.26 per cent from last year's total of 17,540,692. Revenues of $4,971,477.65 dropped 4.46 per cent from last year's $5,203,366.05.

The statistics, however, represent an improvement over the comparisons after the first three and six month periods of the year. If present trends continue, the authority expects total traffic and revenue for 1974 to approximately match the figures for 1973.

Figures for Sept. 1974 compared with Sept. 1973 continue the trend of recent months. Overall traffic was down by 1.42 per cent and revenue was off by less than one-half of one per cent.

The Mid-Hudson Bridge showed the only increase in traffic for the month of September, but both Mid-Hudson and the Newburgh-Beacon Bridges reported higher revenues than September 1973.

The Kingston - Rhinecliff Bridge showed a 10.25 per cent drop in traffic and a 10.95 per cent decline in revenue in the September comparisons. Authority spokesmen attribute the seemingly large decreases to the fact that last September's figures were unusually high. The Kingson-Rhinecliff Bridge was used for trips between Kingston and Poughkeepsie last year by a large number of motorists who normally travel on Route 9-W and use the Mid Hudson Bridge, but who changed routes due to the closing of the 9-W Bridge over the Rondout Creek between Kingston and Port Ewen.

Special Assistant Named at Bennett

MILLBROOK — Katherine R. Peebles has joined the administration of Bennett College as special assistant to the president.

In this capacity working with President J. William Nystrom, she will be working cooperatively with the Admissions Department and Fine, Applied, and Performing Arts Departments, to develop a new program directed toward high school juniors who wish to prepare for careers in those areas.

County Funds

Ulster County will receive $915,490.63 in the October distribution to social service districts in the state according to an announcement made by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt. The sum represents approximately 90 per cent of the federal and state share of anticipated welfare expenditures for the month as well as settlement of claims for the quarter ended June 30.

Output Lower For 14 Fall Vegetables

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department predicts that production of 14 fall fresh market vegetables will be 12 per cent lower than last year, with snap beans, tomatoes and carrots showing the biggest production losses.

A report on the vegetable harvest potential for the next three months indicated higher production for cabbage, cauliflower, sweet corn, cucumbers, eggplant, escarole and spinach. In addition to tomatoes, snap beans and carrots, other vegetables that will be in shorter supply this fall are broccoli, celery, lettuce and green peppers.

Melon lovers will find this year's crop to be 14 per cent larger than last fall, with an estimated total production at 500,000 hundredweight. Cantaloupes account for most of the melon increase, but honeydew production is also up from last year.

Officials said 24 per cent fewer acres of snap beans were planted this year than in 1973, and the projected harvest of 497,000 hundredweight would be 21 per cent below last fall's crop.

About 13 per cent fewer acres of carrots were planted in 1974, and the production levels could be 19 per cent less than last fall. Tomato production was estimated to fall 22 per cent below the high yielding 1973 crop.

The fall brocolli crop of just over 1 million hundredweight would be about 7 per cent lower than 1973, while projected production estimates for lettuce show a 1974 crop that would be 19 per cent less than the crop last fall.

Green pepper production was expected to be about 8 per cent below a year ago.

Cauliflower production was expected to be 7 per cent higher than last year, and cabbage production will be 5 per cent higher. Sweet corn production may increase slightly from 1973, while escarole will be about the same as last year.

Cucumber production should be up about 23 per cent this year, but celery production will fall from both 1972 and 1973 totals. The 1974 fall celery crop was forecast at 4.1 million hundredweight, 19 per cent below last year and 17 per cent below 1972.

Eggplant production will be 8 per cent more than the 1973 crop, and spinach production will be up slightly.

State's Agricultural District Law Snowballs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The popularity of New York State's unique agricultural district law, aimed at preserving fast-shrinking farm land, is beginning to snowball.

But state officials say it is too early to assess the program's success precisely.

New York State landowners have formed dozens more agricultural districts under the three-year-old law than expected, according to William E. Bensley, a former Erie County dairy farmer who is executive director of the Agricultural Resources Commission. The commission oversees establishment of agricultural districts.

A total of 175 districts have been formed or are in the works in 41 counties in New York State, he said. The districts encompass nearly 2 million acres of land or 20 per cent of the viable farmland in the state. The commission hopes to double that figure in the next two years.

"The acceptance of this program is taking off," said Bensley. "Three years ago, I would have been happy with 30 districts now. But we have nearly 180."

The agricultural district system, authorized by a 1971 amendment to the New York State Agriculture and Markets Law, was intended to help keep prime farm land in production in the face of growing urban pressure and real estate speculation. The Agricultural Resources Commission will review each agricultural district eight years after its creation to determine whether it should be changed or terminated.

Bensley says that is when the department will get the most accurate indication of how effectively the law discouraged competitive land uses and whether it furnished enough incentive to keep the farmer in business.

"The real determining factor is going to be the review at the end of eight years," he said.

But there are already some indications that it is accomplishing its goals.

Farm-rich Schoharie County, where feelings had been heating up over the proposed power plant, was the site of the state's first agricultural district.

Construction of the project is being held up by court action. The original plan called for the flooding of hundreds of acres of land now used for food production.

The law has been refined during each of the past three sessions of the legislature, but its basic provisions remain the same, Bensley said. He gives credit for the concept to Dr. Howard Conkln, a Cornell University professor of agricultural economics and a specialist in land use.

The law provides the farmer with four important benefits:

A farmer whose land is in an agricultural district does not have to worry about his nonfarm neighbors' attempting through their local governments to enact legislation that would prohibit his normal activities, such as constructing new buildings or spreading manure on his fields. Such local restrictions are prohibited.

Second, the law provides that public agencies cannot take over productive farm land without special justification.

Third, it provides that sewer and water taxes cannot be levied on farm land beyond a house and lot, once the district is formed. "If farmers were taxed the way everyone else is taxed — on a frontage basis — it would literally put them out of business," said Bensley, 58, a former New York Farm Bureau president who now lives near Hadley in Saratoga County.

Finally, property tax assessments in an agricultural district must be based on the value of the land as farm land, rather than on potential use.

This last provision, the tax benefits a farmer can enjoy, is one of the least understood sections of the law.

The state Board of Equalization and Assessment sets an assessment "ceiling" that amounts to the agricultural value of an acre of land.

But Bensley says that in at least 90 per cent of the bases, land is being assessed below its true market value as farm acreage anyway. So, in reality, the farmer in an agricultural district reveives a tax break only after the land is assessed at a rate higher than its value as farm land. This occurs in counties, such as Orange and Suffolk, where land is under most pressure for development.

Assessors in most sections of the state have so far not exceeded the state ceilings, but Bensley said the tax incentive provision of the law will assume growing important as the demand for land increases.

He said farmers derive a more immediate benefit from the provision that limits special assessments for such services as a new sewage line to only the value of the farm dwelling and one-half acre of land around it.

This also discourages strip housing developments in rural areas because, without increased tax revenues from farmers, the cost of urban services becomes excessively high for other potential residents.

Not everyone in an agricultural district enjoys the same benefits a farmer does. You have to own at least 10 acres and produce $10,000 worth of agricultural products off that land over a two-year period.

But a nonfarm landowner receives many fringe benefits in an agricultural district. Open space is the most important.

Creation of an agricultural district is a complex, time-consuming process requiring much local initiative and thorough scrutiny by state and county agencies. But it costs the farmer very little, if anything.

An agricultural district must contain at least 500 acres of land, but Bensley said most contain much more. Columbia County, with 129,974 acres in four districts, has more land in agricultural district than any other county in the state. Broome County has a low of 893 acres in a single district.

The initiative for creationof a district lies with the landowners, who must circulate petitions requesting that a district be formed and submit them to the county legislative body. The petitions must bear the signatures of at least 10 per cent of the landowners in any proposed district.

A public hearing is conducted by the county to determine citizen sentiment. Recommendations from the county planning board and a county agricultural district advisory committee, as well as approval by the county legislature, are required. Then the proposal is submitted to the state. The environmental conservation commissioner, with the advice of the Agricultural Resources Commission, has the final decision.

Bensley said he has received requests for information about the system from about a dozen states and the Canadian Ministry of the Interior.

Japanese Break Off Montana Coal Deal

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Japan has broken off negotiations to purchase strip-mined coal from Montana because it feared a controversy that might jeopardize other dealings with the United States, a coal industry official says.

The issue at stake was an attempt by the Mitsui Mining Co. of Tokyo to make large purchases of Western coal for shipment through Oregon ports.

Farmers and ranchers, whose land sits atop federal coal reserves, oppose strip mining and said they had been told any exploitation would be to meet the domestic energy crisis, not for export purposes.

Pemberton Hutchinson, president of the Westmoreland Resources coal company, said Sunday night it appeared the Japanese were afraid any "brawling controversy" might result in legislation to limit the export of other coal reserves from Eastern states.

The Japanese are the United States' biggest customer of metallurgical coal, most of which comes from the Eastern states, Hutchinson said.

Industry and government officials contend strip-mining of massive coal reserves in Montana and surrounding states is necessary to ease the nation's energy crisis.

The battle lines began forming when it was learned Westmoreland had shipped 12,000 tons of coal, valued at about $60,000, to Japan by way of Portland, Ore., for a test burn by Mitsui.

The Northern Plains Resource Council, an agriculture group opposed to strip-mining, reacted angrily to the idea that Montana coal might be shipped to Japan.

Many ranchers have staunchly resisted development of the coal reserves, contending developers are interested in the vast reserves simply because the coal can be strip-mined at relatively low cost.

The New York Times said Sunday that Mitsui had taken a three-year option on a five-acre coal-dock site at Astoria, Ore. It quoted Astoria port officials saying Japanese companies had paid $35,000 for the option and were preparing to guarantee $20 million in revenue bonds for building a modern coal-storage and loading facility.

Garden State No 'Eden' for Casino Gambling

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Gov. Brendan T. Byrne went to Las Vegas to attend a policeman's convention, but he wound up talking to experts about one of the most popular topics in New Jersey these days —casino gambling.

The governor went straight to the experts who included oddsmaker Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, casino operators, Gov. Mike O'Callaghan and William Hannifin, chairman of the Nevada Gaming Control Board.

"He wanted to get an overall view of how casinos operate, and the problems involved," said an aide. The aide indicated that Byrne has not changed his mind about state-run casinos for New Jersey.

A referendum allowing voters to decide whether or not they want casino gambling in New Jersey will be on the Nov. 5 ballot.

However, there is one hitch. Byrne says he will veto any bill which allows casino gambling anywhere but in Atlantic City —and even there only for a five-year experimental period.

Some proponents of casino gambling say such a measure may be unconstitutional. There are certain senators and assemblymen who would like to see gambling statewide.

And then there are the opponents of casino gambling such as church groups and a recently organized band of prominent citizens, banded together as "Casinos — No Dice."

"We are not against the lottery and we are not against bingo and raffles controlled by the state," said Sen. Anne C. Martindell, D-Mercer, a co-chairman of the group.

"What we are against is casino gambling, which poses a threat to the political, economic and social environment of this state," she said. "You can be sure that it is going to cost the state millions of dollars to protect the citizenry against the hoods, racketeers and other fast-buck artists who will flock here in search of 'a piece of the action.'"

William J. Brennan III of Princeton, a respected lawyer and former deputy attorney general, said casino gambling will result in an influx of organized crime and loansharking in the Garden State.

"Considering the state's past record of organized crime problems, it just doesn't make sense to add to them," said Brennan.

While working for the attorney general, Brennan, whose father is an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, conducted a probe which led him to conclude that three state legislators were "too familiar" with organized crime.

The sponsor of the Casino gambling bill, Assemblyman Vincent O. Pellecchia, D-Passaic, claims that with the establishment of casinos police can be turned loose to "handle real crime."

"It seems to me that the police officer would be serving the state and his community better by going after the real criminals," Pellecchia said. "Casinos would cut off millions now going to racketeers and the amount of money they can feed into other illegal operations."

Pellecchia said casinos also would provide new jobs in a state which has an 8.3 per cent unemployment rate, the highest in the nation. Another plus would be a boost to the slumping tourist industry in Atlantic City, the assemblyman said.

Pellecchia charged that Nevada interests already are at work in New Jersey, trying to defeat his bill. He said they are planting articles in newspapers exploring the complex problems of extending gambling in the state.

Pellecchia particularly singled out Thomas Mechling, a New York businessman who once ran for governor of Nevada. Mechling is the head of a group opposing casinos.

A staff researcher for the Senate said passage of the bill "is just the beginning of a lot of questions that will have to be answered."

He estimated that as much as $15 million a year could be derived from one large casino.

"But that doesn't answer questions like who's going to build the casino, or will it be in a hotel already on the Boardwalk. And then you have the problem of where you're going to get the people to operate the casino, and who's going to train them," he said.

"I would say that if the bill passes Nov. 5 it will be at least three to five years before the first dice are tossed," he said.

For John Q. Public ...It's Double Thrust

NEW CANAAN, Conn. (UPI) — "That guy who sold the Brooklyn Bridge three times a week is probably alive and doing well," says Frank Pollock, the editor of a publication for non-passive consumers and reporters on consumer beats.

"If he were the major problem in the marketplace, there'd be no concern. But he's a piker. His successors are more sophisticated."

Pollock, the 34-year-old editor of Media & Consumer magazine, has shown that these successors have scattered enough examples of their craft around to fill 21 monthly issues of the non-profit publication.

It's not in the good news business. Airlines, schoolbus makers, undertakers, banks, supermarket chains, encyclopedia salesmen, travel agencies, insurance companies and many others are examined from angles their public relations writers prefer to ignore.

The October issue leads off with an analysis of the different kinds of information telephone companies give their customers with phone bills, comparing Southern New England Telephone (SNETCo) with New Jersey Bell.

SNETCo's bill does not explain the kind of rate applied to a call, the time of day a call was made and the duration of the call. New Jersey Bell gives this information.

The same issue lists benefits and hazards of the new automated checkout counters at supermarkets, discloses new car warranties that may last longer than a buyer is led to believe, and notes the surrender of privacy in some insurance applications.

The magazine's headquarters in a gray, shingled house on winding Silvermine Road in New Canaan looks more like a family home than that of a national publication.

The publication began with a loan from Consumers Union, for which Pollock worked for four years and which publishes Consumer Report.

Pollock says Media & Consumer has a dual thrust, "trying to give consumers the kind of information they should have but have not been getting, and monitoring the news media for articles of interest to consumer reporters."

A "clip service" near the front of each issue is a clearinghouse for published and broadcast reports from around the country. A recent issue, for instance, included synopsized items from newspapers in New York, Cleveland and Los Angeles, as well as a Minneapolis television station.

If the publication finds itself exhibiting enough dirty linen to bed down a small army, it also acknowledges and applauds changes for the better. It carries stories headlined, "Tire Dealer Tests Before He Sells" and "Coca-Cola Improves Working Conditions," but they are a tiny minority.

Its tabloid cover usually boasts a pop cartoon and a wordy headline saying, "Your Supermarket Really Does Care. But Boneless Chuck Roast Under Any Other Name Will Cost You More."

SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Supreme Court, County of Rockland, I, the undersigned Sheriff of Ulster County, have seized all right, title and interest which the defendant, Dorothy Tucker, had on the 2nd day of May, 1974, or subsequent thereto, of, in and to the following described premises, which I shall offer for sale at public auction as the law directs, at the Ulster County Court House, in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, New York on the 10th day of December, 1974, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to wit:

All that certain plot, piece or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying and being in the Town of Wawarsing, County of Ulster and State of New York, and which is bounded Northerly by lands of James Budd; Easterly by the highway leading from Ellenville to Kingston; Southerly and Westerly by the Fantinekill Stream; It being a part of the farm and premises of which are situated the dwelling house, barn, granery and orchard. Containing by estimation about three acres of land more or less.

TOGETHER with the right and privilege at any and all times to the water from two springs situate in the field nearby, one of said springs is near a bunch of willow bushes and other under or near a pine tree. With the right of ingress, egress and regress at all times to cross lands of the said parties of the first part with men and teams, on foot, or in vehicles, to dig ditches and lay pipes, to lead the water from said springs or either of them to said dwelling house or barn, and for the purpose of cleaning said springs and keeping said pipes in repair, and doing any and all other acts or things which may be necessary for the full and complete enjoyment of said springs and the water therefrom.

BEING the same premises conveyed to Byron S. Thornton by Jennie C. Hampton by deed dated September 20th, 1912 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book No. 440 of Deeds at Page 177, and the same premises conveyed by said Byron S. Thornton to M. Eugene Clark.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that I, Francis R. Koenig, Mayor of the City of Kingston, N.Y., will hold a Public Hearing on Monday, October 21, 1974 at 8:00 P.M., in the Common Council Chambers, City Hall, 1 Meadow Street, Kingston, N.Y. relative to a proposed Local Law as follows:

A LOCAL LAW REPEALING LOCAL LAW #2 OF THE YEAR 1974 AND SUBSTITUTING THEREFOR A NEW LOCAL LAW WHICH REQUIRES THE REGISTRATION OF BICYCLES IN THE CITY OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK, WITH THE POLICE DEPARTMENT AND OBTAINING A CERTIFICATE OF REGISTRATION AND IDENTIFICATION TAG THEREFOR.

SECTION 1. The term "bicycle" shall mean and include any vehicle of an arrangement or combination of two (2) of three (3) wheels, supported by a frame, propelled by the feet acting upon the pedals.

SECTION 2. Registration Required. It shall be unlawful for any resident of the City of Kingston to be used or operated, or rent for use any bicycle upon the public highways, streets, avenues, parks and public places in the City of Kingston without first registering the bicycle with the Police Department and obtaining a certificate of registration and identification tag.

LEGAL NOTICES

SECTION 3. Issuance of registration; Identification tags.

(A) Application—Application for registration shall be made to the City of Kingston Police Department on forms provided by the Police Department. The application shall state the name, age and address of the owner, and if the owner is under sixteen (16) years of age, the name of parent or guardian; the make, type, serial number and color of the bicycle; and the name and address from whom the bicycle was purchsed and any other information deemed necessary and pertinent. If the owner of the bicycle be a minor, the written consent of his or her parent or the person standing in locus parenti or legal guardian of such owner shall be required and shall be filed with the application form.

(B) Registration Cards — Upon due application and payment of the fees herein provided, a registration card containing the name and address of the owner plus the name and address of the parent or guardian if the owner is under sixteen (16) years of age, and the make, type, serial number and color of the bicycle shall be issued and any other information deemed necessary and pertinent. The registration cards shall be numbered consecutively.

(C) Identification Tags—There shall be issued an identification tag, which will be of the reflector type and capable of being securely affixed to the bicycle. It shall contain the words "Kingston, New York" and shall contain a conspicuous number which shall correspond to the number stamped on the registration card.

SECTION 4. Validity of Registration. The registration shall be valid for the bicycle registered for two (2) years from the date of its original issuance.

SECTION 5. Transfer of Ownership. When an owner sells or transfers ownership of any bicycle he shall report such sale or transfer by returning to the Police Department the registration card issued to such person, together with the name and address of the person to whom said bicycle was sold or transferred and such report shall be made within seven (7) days of the date of such sale or transfer. The purchaser or transferee of such bicycle shall apply for a transfer of registration thereof within seven (7) days of the said sale or transfer.

SECTION 6. Fees.

(A) Registration Fees—The fee to be paid for registration of each bicycle shall be One Dollar ($1.00). The fee shall be paid in advance at the time of the issuance of the registration and identification tag.

(B) Replacement Fee — In the event the original bicycle registration card or identification tag is mutilated, damaged, lost or stolen, a replacement tag must be obtained from the Police Department, said replacement tag shall be issued upon the payment of a fee of One Dollar ($1.00) and which registration shall expire on the expiration date set forth in the original registration.

SECTION 7. Tampering With, Mulitating Registration Cards, Identification Tags. It shall be unlawful for any person to remove, destroy, mutilate or alter any registration card or identification tag. Nothing in this section shall prevent the Police Department of the City of Kingston from affixing to the bicycle a number for identification when none can be found or when the existing serial number is illegible. The identification number to be so affixed shall be the Social Security number of either the owner, a parent of the owner or a person standing in the position of locus parenti or legal guardian of a minor.

SECTION 8. Rental Bicycles to Have Identification Tag. No person, firm, partnership or corporation renting bicycles in the City of Kingston shall rent or hire a bicycle to anyone unless the bicycle is registered and has attached thereto an identification tag, pursuant to this article.

SECTION 9. Suspension, Revocation of Registration. The Chief of Police or his designee shall have the authority to suspend or revoke the registration of any bicycle registered under this article and may order the removal of the identification tags from any bicycle operated contrary to the provisions of the Vehicle and Traffic Law of the State of New York.

SECTION 10. Maintenance of Records. The Police Department of the City of Kingston, New York, shall maintain a permanent record of all registration cards for each bicycle registered in the City of Kingston. The cards shall be maintained in two (2) separate files, one according to registration number in numerical sequence and one according to registrants name in alphabetical order.

SECTION 11. Penalties.

(A) Any person under the age of sixteen (16) years, who violates any of the provisions of this chapter shall for the first offense be reprimanded by the Chief of Police or his designee in writing to be sent to the parent or guardian of the offender.

(B) Any person under sixteen (16) years of age who violates any of the provisions of this chapter shall for the second offense have his/her right to operate a bicycle in the City of Kingston revoked for a period of time not to exceed thirty (30) days. Such revocation shall be ordered by the Chief of Police or his designee after due hearing on notice attended by the offender and his parent, person standing in locus parenti or legal guardian of such minor. If the parent, person standing in locus parenti or legal guardian of such minor shall refuse to attend such hearing, they shall be chargeable with a violation and shall, upon conviction, be subject to a fine not exceeding Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or imprisonment not exceeding ten (10) days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

(C) Any person who is sixteen (16) years of age or over and any firm partnership or corporation violating the registration provisions of this Local Law shall be chargeable with a violation and shall upon conviction, be subject to a fine not exceeding Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or imprisonment not exceeding ten (10) days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

(D) Use on sidewalks or footpaths. No person shall ride any bicycle, tricycle or other vehicle propelled by the hands or feet of the rider, along or upon any public sidewalk or footpath intended for the use of pedestrians within the City of Kingston, but this section shall not apply to children under twelve (12) years of age, nor to infirm person or persons who cannot walk by reason of being invalids or cripples.

(E) Bell or whistle. No person shall ride or propel any bicycle or tricycle over any public street or avenue in the City of Kingston unless such bicycle or tricycle shall have attached thereto a bell or whistle for the purpose of giving notice of the approach thereof.

(F) Lighting equipment. No person shall ride or propel any bicycle or tricycle upon any public street or avenue in said city in the nighttime unless such bicycle or tricycle shall have attached thereto a light of such illuminating power as to be plainly be seen two hundred (200) feet ahead and kept lighted all the time between one (1) hour after sunset and one (1) hour before sunrise.

(G) Riding restrictions. No driver of a bicycle shall carry any other person thereon except on a seat securely fastened to the machine at the rear of the driver and provided with suitable rests and hand grips, nor practice any fancy or trick riding on any roadway.

SECTION 12. That Article VI, Section 113-82 through 113-85 inclusive, of the Code of the City of Kingston, New York, and the Ordinance or Ordinances from which same is described, be and the same hereby are repealed in their entirety.

SECTION 13. That all other resolutions, ordinances or local laws or parts thereof inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION 14. This Local Law shall take effect immediately after final passage, public hearing and approval of the Mayor of the City of Kingston, New York, as provided by law.

All interested persons are invited to attend said Public Hearing and express their views.

Francis R. Koenig, Mayor
Rosemarie Hogan, Deputy City Clerk
City of Kingston, New York

A Protection Against Swindle Through Mails

KINGSTON

A new protection program to assist postal customers who complain of mail order swindles has been started by the U.S. Postal Service.

The Postal Inspection Service has begun notifying legitimate mail order merchants of postal customer complaints alleging failure to receive ordered merchandise or promised refunds. The procedure encourages immediate settlement of such claims, according to Chief Inspector William J. Cotter.

The program was extended nationwide after a 60-day pilot project was termed "very successful" by postal officials. During the test, approximately 80 per cent of the customer complaints received were resolved by this method, Cotter said.

Complaints alleging fraud or misrepresentation of products and services sold by mail are reviewed by Postal Inspectors to determine if an investigation is needed or if they can be resolved under the new consumer protection program. Consumers are notified of the actio taken.

Postal customers who have complaints about mail order transactions should contact their local postmaster or nearest Postal Inspector, or write to the Chief Postal Inspector, Washington, D.C. 20260.

Exam Slated In Po'keepsie

An examination for substitute rural mail carrier has been announced by the Kingston Post Office.

Exam will be given in Poughkeepsie. Deadline for applications is Nov. 1.

An eligible applicant selected for the appointment must have a valid state driver's license and a safe driving record and he must pass the Postal Service Road test to show he can safely drive a vehicle of the type used on the job.

All substitute rural carriers of record must furnish and maintain at their own expense vehicle equipment necessary for the prompt handling of the mails, but they are given an equipment maintenance allowance based on the daily mileage scheduled or a minimum allowance per day, which ever is greater.

Substitute rural carriers are assigned to perform duties of the regular rural carrier. Such absences may occur as a result of scheduled days off, leave, illness, military service or other reasons.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Kingston Post Office.

SHS Students To Take Test

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties High School students will join over one million other students around the world in taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test — National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test on Oct. 22.

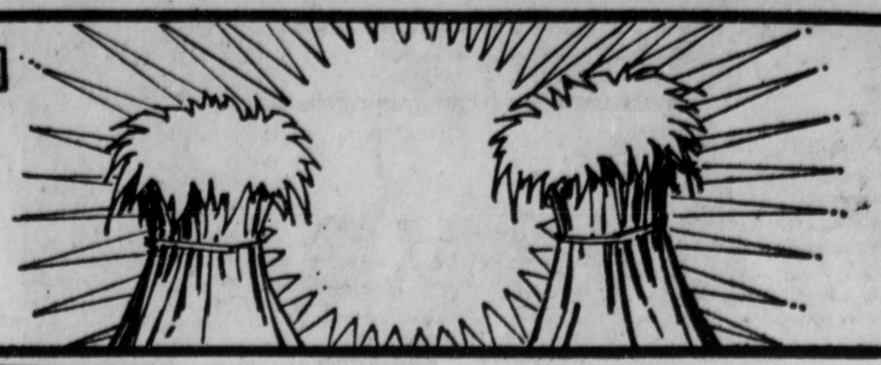

The test is designed to measure verbal and mathematical abilities that are important in doing college work as an important step in making college plans. The test is co-sponsored by the College Board and the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

In addition to helping students find out more about themselves and their abilities, the test leads to other opportunities such as entering the competition for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and participating in the College Board's Student Search Service so they can get information from colleges that may be looking for students like them.

Registrations are now being accepted in the Saugerties High School guidance office. Descriptive bulletins are available.

4-H Month Is Designated

4-H ORGANZATIONAL MONTH—Organization and extension is the theme of 4-H Club Organizational Month designated for October in a public degree issued by Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (center). The program is designed to get more adults involved, to increase the number of clubs and the membership in these clubs. At the signing ceremony with Savago, held in the Executive Chambers of the County Legislature, are: (l-r) Todd McClurg, Sawkill; Linda Harrison, Whittier; Christin Potter, Port Ewen and Paul M. Strombeck, Cooperative Extension agent.

KINGSTON — October was designated as 4-H Club Organizational Month in a public decree issued this week by County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago in which he urged public support of the organization's programs.

Savago stated:

"Ulster County 4-H Clubs have just completed their most successful season in its 44-year history.

"Our local 4-H members who competed at the New York State Fair have scored the finest record of any 4-H county group with wins in tractor, dairy, beef, horse and dog champions. This is the third straight year that Ulster County 4-H has won the State 4-H Tractor Operator's contest.

"There are currently more than 1,000 4-H members in more than 70 organized clubs in the country led by more than 190 adult and junior leaders. Ulster County 4-H is currently conducting its organizational month to increase its clubs and memberships. Ulster County 4-H opens its doors to all youth. Youth are encouraged to join this progressive, dynamic organization.

"4-H Clubs are democracies in action which teach 4-Hers citizenship, leadership and community service.

"The out-of-school program is designed for the benefit of all boys and girls in the 9 to 19 age bracket and is based on the concept of Learning by Doing. With the aid of volunteer leaders and parents, 4-H members develop skills, initiative, poise and learn to assume responsiblities at an early age through project work and activities.

"Now, therefore, I, Peter J. Savago, Chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, do hereby designate October 1974 as 4-H Club Organizational Month."

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 10, 1974 TWENTY-ONE

Flag, Scroll for City

KINGSTON — Kingston will receive its flag and scroll, evidence of its designation by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) as a Bicentennial Community, at ceremonies Saturday at 2 p.m. on the Senate House grounds.

Col. Frederick P. Todd of Cornwall-on-Hudson, a member of the New York State American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, will make the presentation, which was timed to coincide with Uptown Kingston's Annual Fall Festival, and is open to the public.

Todd, former director of the West Point Museum, is a distinguished writer-historian and a recognized authority on American military dress. He is one of the founders of both the American Military Institute and the Company of Military Historians.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig will accept the flag and scroll on behalf of the city. John L. Weber, a member of the Kingston Bicentennial Commission, will preside at the ceremonies, and Harry Rigby Jr., Kingston city historian and also a member of the commission, will introduce Todd.

Designation as a Bicentennial Community makes Kingston "an integral part of our national bicentennial commemoration," according to the ARBA, the federal agency coordinating the observance. Ulster County also has been accorded the designation.

Application for the city's designation was made by the Kingston Bicentennial Commission, headed by Edward Levine as chairman, and was approved by the ARBA in March, with formal presentation set for Saturday, as an appropriate addition to Fall Festival activities.

The day-long Fall Festival, beginning with a parade at 9:45 a.m., features continuous exhibits, guided walking tours, historic homes tour, an all-day Children's Fair at the Senate House grounds, showings of "Pursuit of Liberty," Junior League Heritage slides telling of the American Revolution in the Hudson Valley, and other events. The festival is sponsored by the Friends of Historic Kingston, Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association, and Ulster County Chamber of Commerce, with E. Robert Johnson and Mrs. Thomas W. Reynolds, Jr., as co-chairmen.

Young People's Fair

KINGSTON — The scene: the Kingston Senate House grounds. The event: a unique not-for-profit young people's Colonial Fair and Dutch Dinner to be held Saturday, Oct. 12, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Sponsored by the Stockade Committee, the Kingston University Women and the Woodstock Rotary, the fair and dinner will be offered for families to have some "old-fashioned fun" with only nominal prices being charged for some activities to help defray expenses.

The schedule for the day includes authentic Ulster County colonial games including tether ball apples, colonial marbles, colonial top games, apple drying, Dutch skittles, colonial hunting games, apple head doll lessons, potato print lessons and an Indian game from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The young people's "Touch and See Museum" will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In addition, there will be quilting and woodworking exhibits, educational exhibits and a six-foot lobster to interest youngsters.

At 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. tug-of-war games will be held.

Other events include a presentation of colonial songs by the Stockade Singers at 11 a.m.; a children's tour of the Stockade area at 1 p.m.; a State Bicentennial ceremony at 2 p.m. with Mayor Francis R. Koenig; and a performance of "The Trial of Peter Zenger" by the Myron J. Michael Drama Club at 3 p.m.

The Dutch Dinner, at a cost of $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children 12 and under, will be served at 4 and 5 p.m. It will include roast pig with apple stuffing, ham, Dutch sweet carrots, potatoes, Dutch coleslaw, applesauce, home breads, Dutch dessert, coffee and cider. Reservations can be made by calling 679-6030.

Prices effective thru Sat., Oct. 12

Annual 'Donation Day' Coming Up at The Home

The annual Donation Day Fair and Tea at the Home, 80 Washington Avenue, Kingston, will be held Thursday, Oct. 31st from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tea will be served from 2 to 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend. This event is the only fund raising program sponsored by the Home.

Baked goods will be available for sale, plus a variety of merchandise from the "thrift" and "domestic" tables, including items made by residents of the Home.

A new attraction to the fair will be a garage sale, held apart from the main building in the Home garage. All proceeds for the day will go to the Good Cheer Fund, which provides special comforts to the residents. This includes small gifts and parties in addition to upkeep in the furnishings of their rooms.

Co-chairmen of Donation Day are Mrs. John R. Shults and Mrs. George Schneider. Committees are: Thrift, Mrs. Bernard Feeney, chairman, Mrs. George Schneider, Mrs. Kenneth Wood, Mrs. Alfred Bruckert Sr., Mrs. Henry Bruck Sr., Domestic, Mrs. Arthur Oudemool, chairman, Mrs. Stanley Hankinson, Mrs. S. B. Schwartzwalder, Mrs. Allan Dumas; Food, Mrs. Clifford Henze, chairman; Mrs. S. James Matthews, Mrs. John Breithaupt, Mrs. Louis Smith, Mrs. Robert Lonergan; Tea, Mrs. Sam Pepper, chairman; Mrs. Herbert DeKay, Mrs. Irwin Etchells, Mrs. William Rylance, Mrs. Kenneth Wood, Mrs. Charles Lee; Garage, Mrs. Louis Saltzman, Mrs. George Bushnell, co-chairman.

The Home, which is awaiting official word on its new charter, will be renamed "Hudson Valley Senior Residence."

DISCUSSING plans for the upcoming Donation Day and Tea at the Washington Avenue residence for senior citizens a.e Co-chairmen Mrs. John R. Shults and Mrs. George Schneider. All proceeds from the "once a year" project goes into the Home's Good Cheer Fund. (Freeman photo by Haines)

YOU ARE INVITED to join the residents and staff at The Home on Washington Avenue in Kingston for Annual Donation Day and Tea on Thursday, Oct. 31 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Extending the invitation are (l-r) Richard Baltz, new director of The Home; Mrs. Sadie Marlatt and Mrs. Isabelle Hayden, life-care residents. Dunham - Bunce Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Howard of Grand Gorge announce the marriage of his daughter, Barbara I. Dunham, to Henry J. Bunce of Kingston. The bride is also the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Howard of Prattsville. Mr. Bunce is the son of Mrs. Cathrine Bunce of 397 Foxhall Avenue, and Henry Bunce of Glenerie Park, Saugerties.

The ceremony was performed by Sherwood Davis, justice of the peace, at his home. A reception was given at Boiceville Inn, Boiceville.

The bride wore an off white dress with brown velvet jacket and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and carnations. Blondine Berube of Lake Katrine, as honor attendant wore a light green dress with a deep green velvet jacket and carried yellow and green daisies and carnations.

Donald Van Kleeck of 206 Tremper Avenue, Kingston, was best man.

Mrs. Bunce is employed at Eng's Chinese Restaurant 726 Broadway. Mr. Bunce is employed with the Operating Engineers Local 825, New Jersey.

Meeting on Voluntarism Held by Junior League

DELIVERING the keynote address at the Junior League's Conference for all area agencies and organizations that deal with volunteers was Mrs. Virginia Stuart, Executive Director of CALL FOR ACTION, INC., based in Washington, D.C. and operating in 45 cities around the country to help citizens deal with local bureaucracies. Mrs. Stuart forecast the future for volunteers, characterizing them as "a more professional person" with a specific role or job within an organization. College credits are now and will be given for volunteer experience as well as credit for job experience in applying for paid positions, she said. (Bryson photo)

A successful conference on "Voluntarism" was held early this month at the Holiday Inn under the sponsorship of the Junior League. Attending were delegates from 30 agencies, firms and organizations in the Ulster County area.

The object of the conference was to update the field of volunteerism not only for today but for the future. The entire program was initiated and designed by and for volunteers — leaders interested in maintaining a positive position in the community.

Among the guest speakers were Mrs. Virginia Stuart, executive director of CALL FOR ACTION, INC., Washington, D.C.; Len Cane executive vice president, Ulster County Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Joan L. Mansfield, director, Association of Junior Leagues, Inc.; and Winifred L. Brown, administrative director, Mayor Beame's Office for Volunteers, New York City.

Also participating in the panel discussions and workshop sesssions were Kay Cambone, director of Multi-County Community Development Corporation, Inc., Highland; Mrs. Mona Vaeth, executive director, Volunteer Action Center, Poughkeepsie; and Dennis Pitcock, comptroller, Kingston Hospital.

PANEL DISCUSSION—Among those participating in the discussion on expanding the role of volunteers were, at the microphone, Mrs. Joan L. Mansfield director-at-large of the Association of Junior Leagues; seated (l-r) Mrs. Winifred L. Brown, administrative director, Mayor Beame's Office for Volunteers, New York City; and Len Cane, executive vice president, Ulster County Chamber of Commerce. (Bryson photo)

Annual Dinner in Stone Ridge Planned

The Marbletown Reformed Church will hold its annual turkey dinner, Saturday, October 12, at the church on Route 209, Stone Ridge. This event has been popular for many years and according to the committee advance ticket sales are at an all time high.

Edythe Newkirk and Wessel Cross are co-chairmen of the committee: Harry Snyder, Frank Brooks, Leon Smith, Garton Wagar, Gene Roosa and Bill Roosa.

Servings will start promptly at 5, 6 and 7 p.m. Take out orders may be picked up at 4:30 p.m. Those planning to take-out orders are asked to bring their own containers.

There will be tickets for children as well as adults and they may be obtained at the door. Those desiring a serving time of their choice, should make reservations ahead of time by calling the church.

DENNIS PITCOCK, Comptroller, The Kingston Hospital, is shown leading a workship on "The Economics of Voluntarism" at the Junior League's conference on "Voluntarism--Today and Tomorrow" at the Holiday Inn. The Conference was attended by approximately 30 agencies in the Ulster County area, with each agency sending two or three delegates. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Holiday Gift Bazaar

Mrs. Joan Byers, president of the Women's Guild of St. Joseph's Church, New Paltz, announced at the September meeting of the Guild that the first fund-raising function of the year 1974-1975 will be a HOLIDAY GIFT BAZAAR. The executive board has selected Sunday, Nov. 24th, as the date. This parish affair will be held in St. Joseph's Church Hall, 34 South Chestnut Sweet, New Paltz, N.Y., from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Co-Chairladies of the HOLIDAY GIFT BAZAAR are Mrs. Mary J. Tasker and Mrs. Connie Curran. They have selected a committee to decorate booths reminiscent of the approaching holiday season and each member of the committee will manage her booth and sell articles for immediate and Christmas usage. These booths and the name of the Chairlady of each booth are: Arts & Crafts — Mrs. Joan Byers; Christmas Cards, Wrappings, Ornaments — Mrs. Mary J. Tasker and Mrs. Connie Curran; Gourmet Foods — Mrs. Vicki Szafranski; Holiday Boutique — Miss Frances Costa; Needlecraft, etc. — Mrs. Ann McIntyre; Plants and Holiday Floral Decorations — Mrs. Pat Havranek.

Refreshments will be served gratis. Chairladies of the refreshment committee are Mrs. Lilliam Schreiber and Mrs. Evelyn Rodie.

The Women's Guild welcomes residents of the New Paltz community and surrounding communities at the HOLIDAY GIFT BAZAAR.

MRS. ANNE BREUER, right, president of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah, presents a record to the organization which she obtained at the recent Hadassah National Convention held in Atlanta, Ga. Accepting the gift in behalf of Hadassah are (l-r) Mrs. Lee Markoe, education vice president and Mrs. Peggy Schlossberg, center, program vice president. The record features Jewish and Yiddish music sung by Cantor Isaac Goodfriend, one of the many entertainers at the convention. The music was composed and directed by Sholom Secunda. The record will be played at the general Hadassah meeting called for Tuesday, Oct. 15 at 8 p.m. in Congregation Ahavath Israel, Kingston. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Hadassah Resumes Fall-Winter Season

Mrs. Anne Breuer, president of Kingston Chapter of Hadassah announces the first general meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 15, at Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue at 8 p.m.

The evening's program, after a short business meeting and a report on the Hadassah National Convention held last month in Atlanta, Georgia, will include the new film "As Always Hadassah." The film is a "you-are-there" record of what happened when the Yom Kipper War "'exploded" and Hadassah became "as always" a medical outpost, a resource for one-of-a-kind medical specialists, equipment and supplies.

The film emphasizes what it means to be a helicopter-connected hospital for some of Israel's most serious casualties. As one Hadassah spokesman said: "We get insight into the anguished results of the fighting. We are rushed into the operating room with the casualties. We are present as the war winds down, during the cease-fire, and the 'return to normal' begins. We are also witness to a happier moment—a wedding performed beneath the famous Chagall Windows in the Hadassah Hospital."

Binding it all together, understated, telling-it-like-it-is, never raising her voice, is the nurse-narrator. Hers is the zone of quiet in the storm.

The public is invited to see Hadassah in action.

October is National Membership Drive for Hadassah. All interested people may contact Mrs. Shirley Meyer of Kingston.

Y-Wives Club Meeting

Y-Wives Club of the YWCA will meet Thursday, Oct. 17 at 8 p.m. for an evening of "Fun and Games" to which prospective members and former members are invited. This informal program will follow the business meeting and all members are urged to attend.

The annual Y-Wives membership Tea on October 3 featured a floral theme in keeping with the program. Mrs. Fred A. Schoonmaker, club president, Mrs. Robert P. Slover and Mrs. William E. Barnes were hostesses. Name tags were also made by Mrs. Slover while Mrs. Barnes prepared the program for the autumn season. Mrs. Millard G. Barr and Mrs. Robert E. Brocious jointly presented a program for the tea. Mrs. Barr discussed the planting of tulip and other bulbs to obtain the best results in next year's gardens. She also demonstrate' the making of dried arrangements using field flowers and weeds. Mrs. Brocious discussed growing plants indoors and then demonstrated the preparation of a terrarium. Mrs. Barr and Mrs. Brocious, along with Mrs. Slover, showed many finished dried arrangements in a variety of forms including those framed to be used as wall hangings. Guests at the tea were Miss Maryann Fischler, executive director of the YWCA and Mrs. William Burtnett, president of the YWCA Board of Directors.

Mrs. William T. Devine as chairman of the dinner dance November 9 advises that details will be complete at the next meeting. Mrs. David A. Van Etten, service chairman, reminds members to bring small items to the October 17 meeting to be used by Infirmary patients as game prizes.

Area Activities

Rita Jackaway will be the featured speaker at Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School's parents meeting to be held Wednesday, Oct. 16 at 8 p.m. in the Temple Emanuel 243 Albany Avenue. She will speak on "The Development of Sex-Roles in the Pre-school Child."

Ms. Jackaway is a graduate of Cornell University who majored in child development. She has a MS from the State University of New York at Albany and is currently a candidate for her PhD. there. She holds the position of Assistant Professor in the department of educational studies at New Paltz.

Parent representatives to the Board of Directors will be elected at this meeting. The Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School is a cooperative school and parents play a large role in its organization and management.

Anyone interested in hearing Ms. Jackaway is welcome to attend the meeting. Anyone interested in enrolling their child in the nursery school is invited to attend the meeting or call Suzann- Eichhorn.

The eighth annual Rondout Valley Scholarship dinner dance is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 19 at Ski-Minne, Routes 44-55, New Paltz. The Dutch treat cocktail hour is planned for 7 p.m. with a roast beef dinner slated for 8 o'clock.

Each year the directors of the organization sponsor this gala as a way to obtain funds for deserving seniors of Rondout Valley High School. The eleven members on the scholarship committee are residents of the community who have been approved by the Board of Education as representatives from the various sections of the school district.

Reservations for the event may be made with Robert Davenport of Kingston, Esther Denkensohn, Kerhonkson; JoAnn O'Connor, Rosendale; and Anne Mae Emmerling, Kripplebush.

All auxiliaries of the Dutchess County Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars were encouraged to write to their representatives in Washington expressing their feelings about the issue of amnesty. As mandated by the National VFW, there should be no amnesty. The suggestion to write was made by Carol Ashedon, president, from Wappingers Falls, speaking at the Dutchess County Council meeting recently in Beacon.

Among those attending the county wide meeting were Anna Coons, Kay Ham, Anna Mary Smith and Ann Palumbo from the Red Hook Post.

At the meeting, Addie Goebel advised the members that a piano will be purchased for use at Castle Point Veterans Administration Hospital. The funds for this purchase are from donations.

The next county meeting will be November 17 with Hopewell Junction Post No. 1378.

Of Interest to Women Motorists

Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz has announced that the Anti-Trust Enforcement Bureau of his office which has been investigating big price boosts of automobile anti-freeze for the last six weeks is now taking testimony of executives of major suppliers of the product and has requested documentary evidence relating to the alleged shortage.

The investigation is aimed at determining whether the price increases both at the distribution and reatil points of sale are the results of collusion or price rigging in violation of the Donnelly Act, the New York State anti-trust statute.

Noting that his office has received many complaints from consumers, Attorney General Lefkowitz said he had directed Assistant Attorney General Charles A. La Torella, in charge of the Antitrust Enforcement Bureau, to begin an investigation early in September of the price boosts which were attributed to an alleged shortage of anti-freeze.

The Attorney General said that if the investigation develops information relating to violations of the antitrust law he will present the matter to a grand jury for its consideration.

Doing The Right Thing
By Elizabeth Post

Women's Lib has provided answers for how a liberated woman handles dining out with a man. But questions of etiquette are seldom raised about two women dining together. There are many times when Joan and Jean are not sure who should do what, where and when. Todays' quiz will provide some useful tips for those occasions when women go out together.

1. Q. What is the best way to handle the check when two women are going Dutch?

A. Ask for separate checks, and do so when the waitress takes the order — not later, when she will not want or be able to rewrite the order. If you do forget to make the request in time, decide which one of you will pay the whole bill and then divide it appropriately later. This is far easier than each of you trying to pay the waiter your own exact share.

2. Q. When two women are meeting in a restaurant with a bar at the entrance, does the first to arrive go directly to a table or wait at the bar?

A. Rather than standing in the way near the door or sitting alone at the bar, the first arrival goes to a table. If there are chairs in the lobby other than those at the bar, she may wait there if she prefers.

3. Q. When a woman is summoning a waiter or waitress, what term does she use?

A. She uses 'Waiter," "Waitress" or "Miss." Or, she merely catches his or her eye and raises her hand to signal that she requires his or her service. She should not use the term, "Sir," if the waiter is a man.

4. Q. If you have asked a friend to lunch at a restaurant where one seat is a "banquette" against the wall and other is a chair facing the booth, who sits where?

A. Although it might seem appropriate for the hostess to be seated on the banquette, where she faces the hall of the restaurant and can easily ask for service, the guest is given the choice seat on the "banquette." The hostess may ask the guest to call the waiter or tell the hostess when one is nearby.

5. Q. When two women dine out together, which one orders?

A. They give the waiter their order. The only exception might be if one were clearly the hostess. In that case, she might ask her guest what she would like and order for them both.

Abby Says: He Needs His Father for a Friend

DEAR ABBY: I needed some Scotch tape so I looked in my son's desk for some, and noticed the beginning of a letter my son had written to his girl friend. It read, "I am only interested in being stoned, spending money and sex."

I read no further.

My first impulse was to confront him with this, but then he would say I had no right to go snooping through his desk.

I don't think I should go on ignoring this. I would appreciate some advice. He is 18½.

BEWILDERED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: You could be about 17 years too late. It won't help you now to be reminded that you failed to build the kind of father-son relationship that inspires trust, confidence and total honesty. It's possible that what you read did not reflect your son's thoughts accurately, however.

Don't tell him what you saw, but try to get a dialogue going so you can get inside his head. Encourage honesty, and no matter what he says, be cool, and don't put him down or make him feel guilty. If you can develop candid two-way communication, you'll be able to influence and eventually help your son. He doesn't need punishment, Father, he needs a mature understanding friend.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: About a week before our daughter and her steady graduated from high school, they told us that she was pregnant and they wanted to get married.

There was a long silence, then my husband said: "We've all made mistakes in our lives, but some of us never got caught. Now you two kids will have to excuse us for five minutes while we plan our daughter's wedding."

Then Dad led me into the bedroom, handed me $25 and said: "Let's see if you're as smart about money now as you were 25 years ago."

Needless to say, time was short, so I went downtown the next morning and bought six yards of yellow cotton, two simple formal patterns, two yards of pink lace, two yards of ivory lace, and some pink and ivory ribbon — all for less than $10. (I had $15 left over for the flowers and reception. Boy, I had money to burn!)

My younger daughter (age 15) and I made the dresses. I baked the wedding cake and made punch. Only the very immediate families were invited to the wedding.

Our minister performed the ceremony in front of our fireplace, which was decorated with greenery from our garden and two white candles. The girls were beautiful in their simple dresses with their long black hair tied back with ribbons to match their dresses. The bride carried a single ivory carnation, and her sister, a pink carnation.

We made sure the fridge was well stocked, and Dad, Sister and I spent the weekend in a neighboring town with Dad's brother.

Dad says I'm still as smart about money as I was 25 years ago.

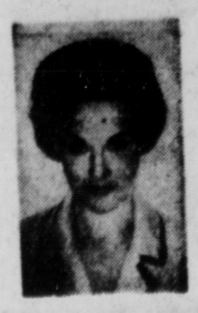

NO NAMES PLEASE

DEAR NO: You're not only smart about money, you are wise about other things, too. And so is your husband.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Temple Emanuel Dinner

Under the chairwomanship of Mrs. Debra Kalish, Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel mailed tickets to their Annual Roast Beef Supper on Thursday, Oct. 3. Those who assisted were: Mrs. Rita Riffenburg, Mrs. Judy H. Robins, Mrs. Beatrice Goldberg, Mrs. Anita Kantor, Miss Ruby Markson, Mrs. Ruth Millens, Mrs. Pearl Kreisberg, Mrs. Barbara Steiner, Mrs. Marsha Gikner, and Mrs. Beverly Shaymow.

Mrs. Beatrice Goldberg is chairwoman for this annual supper. The dinner will be held Wednesday Oct. 20 at the Temple. This event is held yearly at election time. Traditionally many of the candidates have attended providing many an opportunity for informal discussion with area voters. Mrs. Marlene Etter, Mrs. Leoner Oberdin, Mrs. Jesse Goldsmith, Mrs. Barbara Steiner, Mrs. Helen Kletske, and Mrs. Rita Riffenburg are serving as co-chairwomen.

It is necessary that persons desiring to attend the 5:30 serving make reservations by contacting either Mrs. Judy Cohen or Mrs. Joan Speigel. People will be seated and served in the order of their arrival after the 5:30 reservations.

A sale of homemade baked goods will be organized by Mrs. Marlene Etter. The merchandise booth, chaired by Mrs. Beverly Shaymow, will have a variety of items. Coordinating the booth with her will be Mrs. Helen Mann.

Mrs. Gail Posner, Sisterhood publicity chairwoman, is handling the publicity for the supper.

Waiter service will be provided by the Temple Brotherhood, under the direction of its president, Kurt Wolff with the assistance of NFTY members.

Edwin Wetterhahn, Alfred Ronder, and Dr. Sidney Wolff will be on hand to greet guests.

Mrs. Helen Mann has obtained from Bernie Singer, Ulster Avenue Mall, the donation of a portable tape deck for this year's fund raising event. Tickets will be available the night of the dinner. Mrs. Joan Fein is in charge of printing the tickets.

Mrs. Rita Riffenburg, president of Sisterhood, on behalf of its members, cordially invites the public to attend.

A's and Dodgers...A Study in Contrasts

CHAMPAGNE PARTY—Dodgers' Jimmy Wynn (L) waves the bubbly bottle around after dousing manager Walter Alston with champagne in dressing room after LA defeated Pittsburgh, 12-1, to capture the National League pennant. (UPI)

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer

Horace Greeley said something about young men seeking their fortunes in the West, and the Los Angeles Dodgers and Oakland A's did just that.

But when they put the baseball championship of California and the world on the line, it'll be very evident that more than 400 miles separate these teams, their styles, and their people.

Item:

Charley Finley, nattily-attired and overbearing, walks into the Oakland A's dugout before game time and checks Manager Alvin Dark's lineup card. If Finley doesn't like it, he just might order a change or two.

Walter O'Malley, chomping on a big cigar, sits in his private box seat, minding his own business, leaving the running of the Los Angeles Dodgers to Walter Alston, who has had the job for 21 years — all on one-year contracts.

Item:

Vida Blue, the A's pitcher who's been sullen for two years because of his 1972 contract dispute with Finley, is asked if there is any joy in the game of baseball.

"There's joy at payday," says the 25-year-old Blue. "Baseball is just a job."

Dodger pitchers don't talk like that. Dodger players don't act like Oakland players. They don't have clubhouse fights like the A's, whose superstar Reggie Jackson and young outfielder Bill North got into a brawl this year.

The Dodgers are mostly young and hungry athletes — a throwback to Branch Rickey's days in Brooklyn. Their stretch-drive flop last year was blamed on immaturity.

This year, the front office came up with two big needs — a power hitting outfielder and a relief ace in the persons of Jimmy Wynn and Mike Marshall — to go along with such young standouts as Garvey, Ron Cey, Bill Russell, Bill Buckner, Davey Lopes, Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith.

And Saturday at Los Angeles, for the first time since 1966, the Dodgers — Dem Bums for you oldtimers — are in the World Series. They meet the rowdy A's, a somewhat modern day Gas House Gang, reminiscent of the St. Louis Cardinals of the 1930s.

The A's have been there before. They have won the past two World Series and are cocky and confident that the championship banner will be flying over the Oakland Coliseum again.

But the Dodgers hope their all-for-one and one-for-all attitude, as rah-rah as it may sound to cynics and Charley Finley, will help knock the A's off their controversial pedestal.

Oakland Can Score Despite Slump

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oakland A's go after their third straight World Series championship with ailing Reggie Jackson and the team's other erstwhile sluggers in a slump.

But the resourceful A's manage somehow to score, and they still have magnificent pitching to use against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Both were apparent Wednesday in the 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles which gave Oakland the American League pennant, three games to one.

The A's scored their first run on four consecutive walks in the fifth inning and another in the seventh on their lone hit, a double by Jackson following another of the 11 walks off Mike Cuellar and Ross Grimsley.

Winning pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter and reliever Rollie Fingers held the Orioles to five hits, with Baltimore finally ending a 30-inning scoring drought on Boog Powell's ninth inning hit.

The A's pitching is what impressed Earl Weaver, the Baltimore manager. He predicted it would enable Oakland to join the 1936-39 and the 1949-53 New York Yankees as the only teams ever to win three World Series in a row.

"Pitching dominated the playoffs," Weaver said. "But that's the way we got into it, the way they got into it, and the way theyre going to win the World Series."

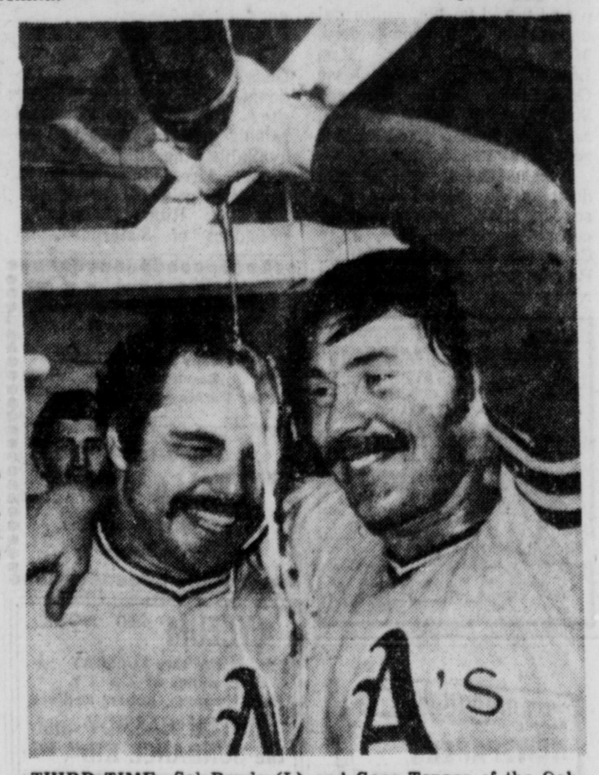

After banging three home runs to beat Hunter 6-3 in the series opener, the Orioles scored only one more run. Through the fifth inning of the final game, they had gone 15 innings without advancing a runner beyond first base.

The A's weren't much better at the plate as they battled a Baltimore pitching staff which Oakland owner Charles O. Finley had feared would be tough to beat.

Jackson, playing the final three games as a designated hitter while hobbled with a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg, had two hits in the four games.

Oakland's other three top run-producers, all of whom knocked in 73 runs or more during the regular season, didn't fare much better.

Sal Bando did have two homers among his three hits, and his first homer won the third game 1-0. Joe Rudi was limited to two hits and Gene Tenace went 0-for-11.

THIRD TIME—Sal Bando (L) and Gene Tenace of the Oakland A's celebrate their team's victory over Baltimore Wednesday for their third straight American League championship. Bando scored both of Oakland's runs in the 2-1 clincher. (UPI)

LA Was Hoping For All-Cal Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's an All-California World Series for the first time, and Steve Garvey said the Los Angeles Dodgers wanted it that way.

"We said collectively that we want to play the best team," said Garvey, hitting star of the Dodgers' 12-1 victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday that gave Los Angeles its first National League pennant in eight years.

"Oakland is the World Series champion and the American League champion again, so we have to beat them if we want to prove we are the best team in baseball."

The Dodgers — behind Garvey's two home runs and two singles, and Don Sutton's masterful pitching — whipped the Pirates Wednesday, winning the series three games to one. The two-time defending World Series champion A's eliminated Baltimore by the same margin in games for the American League crown.

The A's are expected to pitch Ken Holtzman, who blanked Baltimore last Sunday, and Los Angeles will open the series with Andy Messersmith, who beat Pittsburgh Sunday, in Saturday afternoon's game at Dodger Stadium.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston refused to draw a comparison between the Dodgers and A's because he hadn't studied scouting reports. "I don't know much about Oakland," he said.

Alston, whose first pennant came in 1955 when the Brooklyn Dodgers won their first World Series, didn't even want to compare his youthful 1974 team with those of even a decade ago, when Sandy Koufax pitched the Dodgers to a World Series triumph over Minnesota, the last time Los Angeles won it all.

"I'm so proud of this team with so many youngsters going so far as they have. This fella right here (Don Sutton) pitched outstanding ball for us."

Sutton, however, said the Dodgers, with young players in their second or third seasons — Garvey, Ron Cey, Dave Lopes and others — "are starting a dynasty." The 29-year-old pitcher, a rookie in 1966 when LA won its last pennant, said flatly that 1974's is the better team.

The Pirates, who won the NL East title for the fourth time in the last five year, had no qualms about picking the Dodgers to win the World Series.

"I pick the Dodgers," said Manager Danny Murtaugh. "I don't predict the number of games the series will go. I'll root just as hard as any Dodger fan for them in the series. It was a battle for the pennant up to now, and this is now a league vendetta."

"They outhit us, outpitched us and just outplayed us, all the way around," said Pirate center fielder Al Oliver. "They deserve to go to the World Series."

Weaver Manages Surprise Joke

BALTIMORE (AP) — Manager Earl Weaver of Baltimore, always disconsolate in defeat, somehow managed a surprise joke after the Orioles lost the American League Championship to the Oakland A's.

After blaming umpire Dave Phillips for contributing to Baltimore's 2-1 defeat on Wednesday, Weaver dropped what sounded like a true bomb.

"We play 162 games to get here," Weaver said, "and then we get a bad report from our scouts." Newsmen gasped, while reaching for pencils and microphones.

But it was only a mammoth curve ball, even bigger than those thrown in vain by losing pitcher Mike Cuellar, who was lifted in the fifth inning while still hurling a no-hitter — after walking four batters to force in Oakland's first run.

"I was only kidding," said Weaver, who was suddenly very much out of character in such a situation. Standing just behind the circle of newsmen was Bill Werle, who had scouted the A's.

Actually, not much scouting was necessary for the two foes, who have played each other for the league championship in three of the past four seasons — Oakland winning the last two years.

Except for his brief attempt at humor, Weaver was very much in form while complaining that the failure by Phillips to call a third strike on three Oakland batters had ruined the day.

"With the stuff Cuellar had," Weaver said, "I think he would have pitched a no-hitter if it hadn't been for Phillips. The guy wouldn't raise his right hand on close ones."

One near-miss, Weaver contended, was on a 3-2 pitch to Sal Bando with two outs and none on in the fifth. Three more walks followed, and the A's had their first run.

Herve Filion Records Harness Win No. 5,000

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI) — Herve Filion drove Lovin Time to victory at Yonkers Raceway in Wednesday night's first race, thus becoming the first North American harness racing driver to win 5,000 races.

According to the United States Trotting Association, Filion now has accumulated more than $15,000,000 in purses since he began competing at major raceways in 1961.

The historic win, Filion's 490th score this season, brings his 1974 earnings to approximately $2,750,000. In 1972 the 34-year-old native of Angers, Quebec, set dual records by notching 605 triumphs and collecting $2,473,265. He already has shattered his own earnings mark, and remains well ahead of the victory pace he set two years ago. Filion has set a personal goal of winning $3,000,000 in purses by year's end.

Only Hans Fromming and Eddy Freundt, both natives of West Germany, have more wins than Filion. Fromming, now 64 shows 5,202 scores in a career that started in 1926, Freundt, who is 45, has won 5,064 times since 1949.

The French-Canadian's closest North American competitor is Hall of Fame trainer-driver Billy Haughton, who the USTA credits with 3,897 wins through Oct. 3 the 51-year-old Haughton, who has been driving on a full-time professional basis since 1949, is the sport's leading money-winner with lifetime earnings in excess of $20,000,000.

BATTER UP—Goalie Ron Low of the NHL's new Washington Capitals appears to be on the warpath as he bats away puck during game with Rangers Wednesday night. The two combatants in the background have other things on their minds. Rangers won, 6-3. (UPI)

Rangers Inflict 'Capital Punishment'

NEW YORK (AP) — "It could've been worse — but not much," said weary, sweat-soaked Ron Low.

The Washington goaltender had faced a 19-shot barrage almost alone in the third period Wednesday night while Eddie Giacomin, his counterpart on the other end of the ice, had faced only one.

The result was a four-goal burst by New York and a 6-3 victory over the newly minted Capitals in their first National Hockey League game.

"It's not going to be like it was tonight all year," Low said between swallows of salt tablets. "The first two periods the guys played pretty good hockey. But we were pretty tired after that, trying to keep up with the Rangers.

"The defense just fell down, that's all," Low continued. "But you've got to expect that. We're brand new. Half the time we didn't know what we were doing. We had lines skating together for the first time.

"Still, I think we've got a pretty good team. It's just that we played a better one."

Jim Hrycuik, who etched his name into Washington's embryonic record books by scoring the Caps' first goal, agreed with Low's assessment.

"The Rangers pressed us pretty hard in the third period," he said. "Except for then, I thought we played pretty well. We just ran out of steam."

Hrycuik put Washington on top at 5:06 of the first period when he breezed down the left side of the rink, swept around a surprised Gilles Marotte, then beat Giacomin.

"It was super," he said of the goal, his first in the NHL. "I got so excited I didn't know what to do with myself. It's just too bad it didn't stand up a little longer."

Just 37 seconds later, Greg Polis took a pass from Rod Gilbert on Low's doorstep and tied it for the Rangers. The teams traded second-period goals with Ron Anderson scoring on a power-play breakaway for Washington and Brad Park scoring on a Walt Tkaczuk rebound—the first of Tkaczuk's four assists—with a 15-foot shot through a maze of players.

Rick Middleton put New York on top or the first time at 1:11 of the third period, poking in another Tkaczuk rebound. This time, though, it was Washington coming right back on Dave Kryskow's backhander during a goalmouth scramble 32 seconds later to tie it 3-3.

Polis, with his second goal, put the Rangers on top for good at 3:24. Gilbert skated in on goal, attracting a crowd of Capitals, then slipped a pass to the unguarded Polis who beat Low from the left corner of the crease.

Middleton's second goal at 16:13 and Gilbert's with 29 seconds to play wrapped it up for the Rangers.

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League Wednesday night, Montreal had to score twice in the final period to salvage a 5-5 tie with the New York Islanders; Toronto scored four times in the third period to beat the new Kansas City Scouts, 6-2; Detroit edged Chicago, 2-1; Pittsburgh downed Minnesota, 4-2; St. Louis tied California, 4-4; and Vancouver and Atlanta skated to a 3-3 tie.

Pete Mahovlich completed the hat trick by scoring twice in the last two minutes to give Montreal its tie. Billy Harris scored twice for New York as did Ralph Stewart.

Cowens Joins Jabbar On NBA Injury List

BOSTON (UPI) — The two best basketball teams in the NBA last season are in BIG trouble as the 1974-75 tapoff approaches.

The champion Boston Celtics learned Wednesday that Dave Cowens, their mobile, 6-foot-10 center, will be lost until late November because of a fractured right foot.

The news comes a week after Kareem Abdul-Jabbar received a serious eye scratch and broken hand, leaving the runnerup Milwaukee Bucks with a 7-foot-2 hole in the middle of the basketball floor. Abdul-Jabbar will be out at least a month and much longer if the eye problem fails to heal.

The injuries constitute a blessing for the other teams around the league who had to negotiate Cowens and Abdul-Jabbar in order to take Boston and Milwaukee.

What the ailments do to the teams is a graver problem. The Celtics will have to go with reserve center Hank Finkel and ABA castoff Jim Ard while the Bucks will rely on bulky forward Cornell Warner.

The weaknesses up the middle of the two teams will benefit Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, Detroit's Bob Lanier, Baltimore Elvin Hayes and Nate Thurmond and his new Chicago mates among others.

The Bucks are further weakened by the parting of Oscar Robinson while the bad blood between the Celtics and guard Chaney, who will play for St. Louis of the ABA next season, could keep the sixth year defensive ace on the bench a great deal.

It appears the Bulls and Detroit could build an early lead on the Bucks while the Braves and rebuilding New York Knicks could make headway on the Celtics in their divisional races.

Jerry Set In England

WENTWORTH, England (UPI) — Carlifornian Jerry Heard made his first appearance at Wentworth Wednesday to prepare for the $82,000 Piccadilly World Match Play golf championship where he faces Australian Gary Marsh in the opening round Thursday.

The 27-year-old American, runner-up in the Sahara Invitation in Las Vegas last week, has never played Wentworth's rough Burma Road West Course, but hopes to match his last appearance in Europe when he won the Spanish Open in La Manga.

The other seven competitors for Thursday's first round of the classic event were putting the final touches to their game today, including South African Gary Player, who will be trying to win the title for a record sixth time.

The 37-year-old South African, who beat Marsh in last year's final, is having a great season with victories in the U.S. Masters and British Open.

Player, 7-4 favorite in the betting for the $24,000 first prize, faces 21-year-old Ben Crenshaw in his opening match.

WFL Attendance Declining Sharply

BY JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The troubled World Football League got some more bad news Wedneday night when the league's best franchise left three-quarters of the 70,000-seat Legion Field in Birmingham empty..

The WFL, which had to drop two franchises and move two others recently because of poor support, pointed to Birmingham as its pride and joy. The Americans once drew 55,000 fans in a rainstorm.

But after back-to-back upset losses to Portland and the Hawaiians, only 25,621 fans showed up at Legion Field Wednesday night to watch Birmingham gain revenge on Portland 30-8.

The Storm jumped off to an 8-0 lead before Birmingham erupted for 15 points in the second quarter and then added another 15 in the second half while shutting off Portland's offense.

Charley Harraway and Joe Profit plunged for touchdowns and George Mira threw seven yards to Dennis Holman for one TD and 13 yards to Jim Bishop for another for the Americans, now 12-3. Portland's only score came on an eight-yard pass from Pete Beathard to Robert Holmes.

"I wish we could play all our games at home," said Birmingham Coach Jack Gotta, whose club is unbeaten in eight home games. "A lot of people missed some good football tonight but that hard core of fans that have been with us all along came out again and we appreciate it."

The victory left the Americans one game behind the Central Division-leading Memphis Southmen, who beat the Charlotte Hornets 27-23.

"That first drive of theirs was disastrous for us," Gotta said. "But our defense really came roaring back. Profit really came into his own tonight. He has really come a long way and is playing like we knew he could."

Profit was a No. 1 draft choice of the NFL Atlanta Falcons a few years back but was plagued by injuries before being let go.

Portland Coach Dick Coury said he felt his players, "were flat. Birmingham did an excellent job of controlling the ball in the second half."

In other WFL games, the Florida Blazers ripped the Fire 45-17 before 23,298 in Chicago and the Hawaiians edged the Bell 25-22 before only 4,900 in Philadelphia. The Shreveport Steamer plays the Southern California Sun in Anaheim tonight.

Southmen 27, Hornets 23

Danny White threw TD passes of 13 and 19 yards to Edward Marshall in the final period to lift the Southmen over Charlotte, playing its first home game since being transplanted from New York two weeks ago. A sellout crowd of 25,133 watched the Hornets take a 18-11 lead after three periods before White connected twice with Marshall. J.J. Jennings had a TD for the Southmen while quarterback Tom Sherman plunged for one Charlotte score and Don Highsmith ran for two more.

Blazers 45, Fire 17

Running back Tommy Reamon threw a 60-yard TD pass two more scores with long runs to Matt Maslowski and set up two more scores with long runs as the Blazers blasted Chicago to move two games up on Charlotte in the WFL East. Reamon went over the 1,000-yard mark and Bob Davis also hit Maslowski with a 41-yard TD pass and ran for another score. Bill Cappelman and Leo Hart each threw a scoring pass for the Fire.

Hawaiians 25, Bell 22

Al Davis' third TD of the game on an eight-yard pass from Norris Weese with 2:45 left carried the surging Hawaiians past Philadelphia. Davis also scored on runs of eight and one yard while the Bell's Claude Watts scored on a seven-yard pass from King Corcoran and a 20-yard run and John Land ran 46 yards for another TD. Philadelphia had a chance to tie in the final minute but Ron Holliday dropped the center snap on a field goal attempt.

UCCC Booters Blank Orange

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College zipped highly regarded Orange Community of Middletown 3-0 Wednesday, an acomplishment Coach George Vizvary described as "an impressive victory".

But despite the shutout the erudite coach was not entirely satisfied with his team's defense. "We are still afflicted by a non-defensive attitude," he said. "We must improve in the games ahead.'

Willie Mavas put UCCC ahead 1-0 just 3:25 after the first faceoff and that was all the scoring in the first half. Kurt Nedrick booted home the second goal at 2:30 of the second half with an assist from All-American Mario Olivo.

Twenty five minutes later, Oscar Rendon completed the days scoring with an assist from Simon Curknovic. The win was the second for the Senators, who tied Dutchess in their other Mid-Hudson Conference outing. The Colts suffered their first conference loss after two wins and are now 2-1-2 overall.

Ulster's next major problef is Staten Island, a team the Senators have not beaten in six tries. "The Clippers have a good, solid soccer team," said Vizvary. "We have to play honest man-to-man defense against them. We cannot depend entirely on the goal keeper (John Bertunia)."

Staten Island will be extremely tough on its home field, despite four consecutive ties against New York City Community, Queensborough, Bronx Community and Nassau.

"The Dutchess game taught us a good lesson," said Vizvary. "The rest of the way is not going to be easy, but I think that if we play up to our potential, we should do alright. But, frankly, I'm a bit nervous about Saturday."

In other Mid-Hudson Conference action Wednesday, Westchester shut out Sullivan, 3-0 for the Vikings' third win against two losses and two ties. Sullivan is 1-2-1 overall.

The Westchester goals were scored by Gene Salkey, Mike Cardenas and Benny DiMaula.

Binghamton Split For Hawk Tossers

BINGHAMTON

New Paltz State rebounded from a one-hit shutout defeat in the opener Wednesday to rip Binghamton, 8-3, in the nightcap and gain a split in its State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) baseball doubleheader.

Binghamton had taken the first contest, 2-0, with Larry Panella's fifth inning single the only safety off winning pitcher Jerry Gaube.

Tom Whitaker of Saugerties and Mark Styker of Rondout Valley, two of the three local high school products on the Platz team, combined to hurl the second game win for the Birds.

Whitaker went six innings, striking out six and walking one, leaving with his team ahead, 4-3. Stryker hurled a shutout seventh inning to get the save.

Dennis Ponte paced the second game attack with two hits. Whitaker had two runs batted in as did John Giullano.

Starter Steve Johnston took the defeat for Binghamton.

In the opener, Gaube fanned 11 New Paltz batters and walked only three in gaining his one-hit triumph. Drew Tressler gave up only five hits and one earned run for New Paltz but took the defeat. He struck out two and walked one.

The split left New Paltz with a 3-1 conference record, 4-3 overall. A doubleheader Saturday at Plattsburgh ends the fall schedule.

Maroon Scores 4-2 Soccer Win

KINGSTON

Kingston High School peppered John Jay goalie Don Porter with a barrage of shots Wednesday and enough got by the tough Patriot netminder to give the Maroons a 4-2 victory over their visitors at Loughran Park.

Elsewhere in the DCSL, Roosevelt moved into first place with a 2-1 win over Rhinebeck, Arlington stopped Oakwood, 5-0, Ketcham tied Wetbutuck, 2-2, and Poughkeepsie beat Saugerties, 2-1, in overtime.

"Their goalie was just about the best one we've faced," admired KHS coach John Hunter, "but we played the way we can. The kids hustled, just like they did in the second half of the Roosevelt game last week, and they got the ball quickly, forcing the play. I don't care how good your opponent is, if you play that way you're going to win."

KHS opened the scoring at 3:24 when Kevin Boyd sent a long cross which David Farrell headed to Herb Kantor who blasted one past Porter.

At 25:34 it was 2-0, this time Farrell getting an assist from Kantor.

Any plans Jay had of coming back fast in the second half were put to rest quickly when Farrell caught a Patriot halfback overplaying his man and sent Kantor free on a breakaway which Herb converted at the 30 second mark.

Then, with Hunter having inserted several of his reserves, Jay forward Jim Delulio picked up two quick socres, one at 20 minutes, the other three minutes later.

The lead having been cut to 3-2, the first string re-entered the game at 29:30 Billy Davis scored for Kingston to ice the victory.

KHS outshot Jay, 34-14. Porter made 23 saves while Maroon goalie Vince De Luca was forced to stop only 11.

Hunter praised the play of halfbacks Dino Provenzano and Tim Dell and fullbacks Lloyd Wilson and Eric Lippincott.

Kingston returns to action Saturday at Ketcham.

Details on the Saugerties-Poughkeepsie game were not reported.

Jackie Ickx - A New Turn

NEW YORK (UPI) — Grand Prix driver Jacky Ickx turns toward offshore powerboat racing this week as another possible daredevil field to conquer.

Ickx, a 29-year-old Belgium auto ace, gets his feet wet in the new endeavor Friday when he navigates for world champion Carlos Bonomi in the Miami to Nassau boat race.

It will be the diminutive driver's first sea venture and if he enjoys the experience there's a chance Ickx will seek a powerboat sponsor when his Formula 1 contract with Lotus ends next year.

Ickx, who won his first Grand Prix race at 23 when he mastered the French classic at Rouen in 1968, has captured eight GP's but was shutout last season and this year.

"I feel this could be the time to experiment in something different," said the five-foot, seven-inch auto jockey. "I really have no idea at this time whether I will like the experience. But if I do, I certainly intend to pursue the matter further.'

Jacky sought out the team manager of the Martini & Rossi powerboat Dry Martini that has won several European and world titles, for an opportunity to try offshore water racing.

"The United States Grand Prix at Watkins Glen (N.Y.) was held so close in time to the powerboat race, that I decided this was a good chance to test my feelings for boating.

"When that power boat race is over, I will decide if I wish to continue my interest in the sport as a driver instead of a navigator."

Ickx dropped out of last Sunday's American Grand Prix when his car hit the guardrail on the seventh lap, but he figures there will be no trouble finishing Friday's boat race.

"Bonomi is the talent, I'm merely the man who will call out directions," Ickx says. "I'm going along for the ride. There's no payoff for me, it's just for my pleasure. It is, what you might say, another personal experience in my lifetime."

Co-Captains For UCCC Five

STONE RIDGE

Carl Mabry and Chris Cummings have been elected co-captains of this year's basketball team at Ulster County Community College, Coach Jerry Moss announced today.

Both are veterans of last season's Ulster basketball team and were instrumental in the 13-11 winning record posted by the Senators.

Mabry, nicknamed "Bear" is a 6-foot-5 forward from Goshen High in Orange County. He is again counted on to be a dominant figure for Ulster this season. Physically strong, with exceptional quickness, Mabry is expected to be one of the top big men in Region XV.

Cummings, a 6-foot-2 guard from Monticello was a high school All-American before joining the Senators last season. An ankle injury kept Cummings out of the first half of the season, but he won a starting spot on the team by the end of the year.

Coach Moss calls Cummings, nicknamed "Wheat" one of the best guards in Region XV and expects him to be more effective this season.

Danes Blank Hawks, 2-0

ALBANY

Jimmy Rosa earned his letter Wednesday.

Rosa, New Paltz State's second string soccer goalie who was forced to start against Albany State with No. 1 man Jan Soodak injured, faced a bombardment of 66 shots on goal, came up with 31 saves, and let only two go by him as the Great Danes blanked the Hawks, 2-0.

"They're a fine team," New Paltz coach Peter Van Geem said of Albany. "They didn't play that well in the first half and we had a couple of opportunities to score that we blew. But in the second half they came on like gang busters. We held as long as we could but we just got tired of playing defense. You can't do it for 90 minutes."

Paul Schlegel finally beat Rosa, the New Paltz High School grad, at the 20 minute mark of the second half on a controversial shot which New Paltz argued didn't completely go over the goal line.

Three minutes later, Vince Ruano added Albany's insurance score.

The Hawks had only five shots on goal in the game, losing their third in five outings. Two other contests ended in ties.

"For the ability our team has, I thought we played a helluva game," Van Geem, the first year NP coach, said. "Albany has quite a team. They reminded me of Ulster."

The Hawk coach reported that the spirit on his club remains high and hopes of a first victory still linger.

Saturday New Paltz hosts powerful Brockport State.

Ganders Score Soccer Victory

PINE BUSH

Jay Schaffer's goal at the 45 second mark of the second overtime Wednesday lifted Rondout Valley to a tough 4-3 Ulster County Athletic League soccer victory over Pine Bush High.

Tom Barry had scored Rondout's first three goals to lift his total to six for the season.

Pine Bush jumped out to a 1-0 lead on a tally by Greg Storms from Avrum Katz early in the second period. Barry tied it at 11:09, but Marc Centamore put the Bushmen back on top at 16:27.

Again Barry evened the count, this time at 17:38 on a pass from Jay Schaffer. Barry's third goal, this one at 10 seconds of the fourth period gave RVC a 3-2 lead, but Steve Genario sent the game into overtime at 17:02 on a pass from Bill Piazza.

Wayne Schaffer assisted on Jay Schaffer's game winner in the second overtime.

Peters Named

ANAHEIM (AP) — James M. Peters, a part owner of the California Sun of the World Football League, on Wednesday was named the team's chairman of the board and will act as chief executive officer.

Larry Hatfield will continue to serve in as the Sun's president.

Andre Racks Up Kowalski In Wrestling Headliner

KINGSTON

Andre The Giant, all 375 pounds of him, rendered Killer Kowalski, 260, hors de combat after 12:22 of the feature event on Wednesday night's patched-up wrestling exhibitions at the municipal auditorium.

Kowalski, who was supposed to team up with Strong Kobayashi in a tag-team event against The Giant and Larry Zbyszko, left the ring after a series of blows to the head by The Giant.

Kobayashi (265) and Zbyszko went 20 minutes to a draw in their own personal bout.

S.D. Jones, 265, pinned Frank Valario, 250, in 13 minutes, 5 seconds. Spyros Arion, 260, flipped Harry Schroeder, 260, in 15:06.

Bob Duncum, 270, won on disqualification from Chief Jay Strongbow after 12:18 of the fourth bout.

Kingston and Sawyers Face Undefeated Teams

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON — Local football squads have their work cut out for them Saturday as fifth place Saugerties High and last place Kingston take on the DCSL's co-leaders.

The Sawyers will host Ketcham, the defending champion, a 2-0 team and the 16th ranked large school in the state. The Maroons will do battle at Roosevelt where the Presidents are also riding a 2-0 record.

Fred Seither, the Sawyer coach, knows the job ahead won't be easy. "They're a tough club," he said of Ketcham. "They showed they can come back when they're behind."

The Indians have a converted quarterback named Eric Lancto to anchor their running game. Lancto has over 300 yards in his first two games and he can be expected to test a Saugerties defense that has thus far performed well.

"We feel they're basically a running team," Seither said, but Ketcham is not without an air attack as soph Joel Thomas proved last week.

It is going to be up to the Saugerties offense to make a game of this one, but that unit will need some improved execution.

"I'm very unhappy with it so far. We're just not blocking or doing the fundamentals properly," Seither stated. "We're going to go back to basics."

Seither reported no glaring weaknesses in the Ketcham game but indicated there might be a soft spot or two he'd like to probe. Saugerties is due for a breakthrough soon for as Seither pointed out but for two crucial series of downs, his team could be 3-0 instead of 1-2.

"We had the ball inside the five yard line twice and couldn't score," he said referring to the losses against Beacon and Poughkeepsie.

Echoing similar sentiments of his foe is Kingston's Tony Badalato. He said, "Roosevelt can be bad if they're 2-0."

But Badalato's notes on the Presidents are thin. "They didn't play last week, so we only had a chance to scout them in the rain. We know they have a good passing attack, and it's probably better than their running."

Badalato is more concerned with his own team. "We have really improved. Against John Jay we should have scored more . . . we had all kinds of opportunities, and even with the big plays they had we still should have won."

The Maroons played well enough despite the defeat to keep the coach optimistic about the future. With fullback Dan Mahoney now back at full strength the offense looks good. It could be up to the KHS secondary of Jim Kwasnowski, Keith Sweeney and Mark McElrath to keep the Presidents at bay.

"We've been good against the pass so far," said Badalto. "John Jay only completed two out of eight on us and we had two interceptions. And no one has broken a long one on us yet."

In other DCSL games Saturday, Poughkeepsie is at Arlington and Beacon visits Lourdes.

Red Hook-New Paltz Key Contest in UCAL Saturday

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON — The big football game in the Ulster County Athletic League Saturday is at New Paltz and if that doesn't sound quite right it's because big football games at New Paltz just haven't been the most common happenings in the UCAL the last several years.

John Ford's once-beaten Hugies, a wide-open aggregation which has also displayed a surprisingly formidable defense, will have the stiff task of facing an undefeated Red Hook squad which appears to be gaining momentum with each outing.

In other games on the schedule, Rondout Valley (3-0) is at Marlboro (0-3); Pine Bush (1-2) visits Liberty (2-1); Ellenville (0-3) goes to Wallkill (2-1); and Onteora (0-3) entertains Highland (2-1).

You've heard all about the New Paltz offense . . . how it's based on a strong running attack and potentially dangerous passing game. You've also heard about the 42 points the Hugies tacked on Marlboro's scoreboard on opening day or the 21 big ones they put over in the first half at Ellenville last week.

But the New Paltz team can be stopped (although it took a better than average Rondout team and a rain storm to shut the Hugies out), so it must be comforting for Ford to know that his own defense has yielded only six points in three games.

"Our defense is tough," Ford claimed, "but we don't really know how tough. This game should be the test for us."

Stickouts on the NP split-six have been Jay Egan at defensive end, Phil Bevier on the line, and linebackers Charlie Gardner, Peter Ferrante, and Jerry Marks.

"Red Hook has a diversified offense," analyzed Ford. "They run well and their quarterback throws fairly well and Jim Merriken (Red Hook's all-purpose back) throws well."

If the Hugies can stop the Raiders, they will try to get their own offense moving on the ground before they venture to the air. Quarterbacks Mike Beck and Sean Peterson were sharp against Marlboro, hampered in the rain against Rondout, and only so-so last week against Ellenville.

"Our passing wasn't effective last week," Ford admits. "Regardless, we have to establish a running game first against Red Hook."

Red Hook coach John Neilson sees New Paltz as a strong team, but the Raiders already have beaten good Wallkill and Pine Bush clubs as well as less than powerful Onteora. And with Liberty, Highland and Rondout following New Paltz on the schedule, Red Hook figures the Hugies are just another strong team in the way of a potential championship.

"The team that makes the fewest mistakes will win," Neilson predicted. "New Paltz has good depth and good size and I anticipate it will go at us the way it has in the past, mostly running with passing once in a while."

New Paltz, it should be pointed out, beat Red Hook on the Raiders' field last year and dealt Neilsor's club a serious blow in its title plans. The Raiders don't have to be reminded of that.

"They stunned us last year," Neilson admitted. "We've gone over the video tapes of that game and tried to point out the mistakes we made."

Besides a difficult 4-4 stack defense which has turned in two straight shutouts and, like New Paltz, given up only six points, the Raiders have that great set of running backs led by Merriken and complemented with Foster Dunn, Walt Ulickas, and Tim Moul. Quarterback Ron Coon similarly does a good job lugging the pigskin.

Should the Hugies do the job on the Raiders, the team to get the immediate benefit of the upset will be Rondout, which figures to get by winless Marlboro without much difficulty.

The most impressive thing about RVC's win over Liberty last week was that it showed the Ganders can score points. Statistics reveal that the Rondout defense, heralded as unpenetrable, is fifth in the league in total yards allowed. If that stat is accurate, Rondout will have to keep on scoring.

In the other games, Highland heads into Onteora having scored 64 points in its last two games . . . not a very pleasant thought for the Indians; Pine Bush tries to snap a two-game losing streak at Liberty, which suffered its first loss at Rondout; and Wallkill tries to extend its winning streak to three in the game with winless Ellenville.

Changing Attitudes Hurting Pro Football

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 19-year veteran quarterback acknowledges that much of the free spirit and comaraderie have gone from big time pro football but insists that personal pride has kept the winning attitude alive.

"Players have changed," said Earl Morrall, 40-year-old reserve signal-caller of the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins. "In the old days there was more socializing. After every game, all the guys would meet at a certain place and have a few beers and laughs.

"Now it's more individualized. It's like a day at the office. When the game is over, everybody fans out and goes his separate way. He has an agent to see or a deal to look into. It's more businesslike."

If the tenor of the game has changed for the athlete, so it has also for the debt-ridden owners, the disenchanted fans and the newsmen.

A prominent Southern sports editor transferred to another department earlier this year, saying: "I've had my fill of covering sports. Everybody's so uptight. Athletes are arrogant and independent. Instead of games, you're covering strikes and court cases. It's no fun any more."

There is concern this attitude also may have afflicted a good portion of the paying public, pricking the bubble of the once thriving National Football League.

Inflation is hitting the owners' pocketbooks. Attendance is declining sharply.

Even the players are getting edgy over the spinoff from the player strike and defections of many established stars to the rival World Football League.

One of the hardest hit has been the two-time Super Bowl champion Dolphins, who saw some of their biggest stars — Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield, Jim Kiick, Bob Kuechenberg and Tim Foley —sign 1975 contracts with the WFL.

Other teams have been similarly affected by the raids, including the Dallas Cowboys, perennial title threats, who have had such standouts as Calvin Hill, Craig Morton and Jethro Pugh play out options to go to the rival circuit.

Joe Robbie, Miami president, said he had to double some salaries to keep players and added: "We have mortgaged the financial future of the Dolphins. We will be lucky to make 35 per cent of the net profit made a year ago."

Tex Schramm, president of the Cowboys, said of the drop-off in fan interest: "It's partly the economic pinch and partly the effect of the strike. There's been too much emphasis on money."

Members of the Dolphins bristle at the suggestion — bandied about in the press after they lost their opening game and squeaked past their next two opponents — that they had been spoiled by success.

When Miami's shaky start was bracketed with other early season upsets — two sluggish performances by Dallas, Pittsburgh's loss to Oakland and Los Angeles' setback at the hands of New England — there were hints that football's status quo may have been knocked out of balance by animosities emanating from the strike and WFL defections.

This caused Csonka, Warfield, Morton and others to bristle.

"Dollars and cents have a lot to do with attitude," said Csonka, the bullish, 1,000-yard rusher of the Dolphins who was the Most Valuable Player of the 1974 Super Bowl, "but the mark of a champion is wanting to be a champion.

"I think that describes the Dolphins. We are under a spy glass. Because of our sucess, it's natural for people to start looking for the first crack in the wall.

"Football is not all lollipops and a good time. But for me it's fun. I like it. I never even think of the World Football League. I am a Dolphin and for me it is a matter of conscience that we win."

Csonka spoke at the Dolphins' training quarters at Biscayne College, on the outskirts of Miami.

In the parking lot outside, Continentals, Cadillac, Porsches and Corvettes were parked bumper to bumper. There was one Rolls Royce.

Warfield said he can understand fans being turned off by seeing their football heroes on television surrounded by pretty dolls and reading about them involved in labor disputes.

"One player may make $100,000 and they categorize 1,000 guys in that bracket," he said. "Football players are not knights in shining armor, as most people think. They are no different than the guys who work in the steel mill. They have a right to ask for their deserved benefits."

Morrall, who did stints with San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Detroit, the New York Giants and Baltimore before joining the Dolphins, admitted that the strike produced two factions with some resentments on both sides but said the ill feeling quickly dissipated.

Morrall said he personally had mixed emotions about the mercenary coldness that had invaded the game.

"You have to appreciate a fellow's right to strike the hardest bargain he can," Morrall said. "Yet he must never lose a feeling for the club or for the fans."

The veteran quarterback said the Dolphins had prepared hard for all of their early games. "There was more emotion and greater intensity in the game against Buffalo," he added. "We knew we had to win it."

Morton, Dallas' veteran reserve quarterback, said he found no change in player loyalties. "Players simply have more options now," he declared. "If an opportunity arises to better yourself, you are compelled to take it.

"Football is big business. It was big business when I got into it. It is big business now."

His Own Idea

CINCINNATI (AP) — Horst Muhlmann, the Cincinnati Bengals West German placekicker, had his own idea on what it meant to beat the Washington Redskins 28-17 last Sunday.

"Just shows you," said Muhlmann. "You beat Washington and right away they sock that five per cent surtax on you."

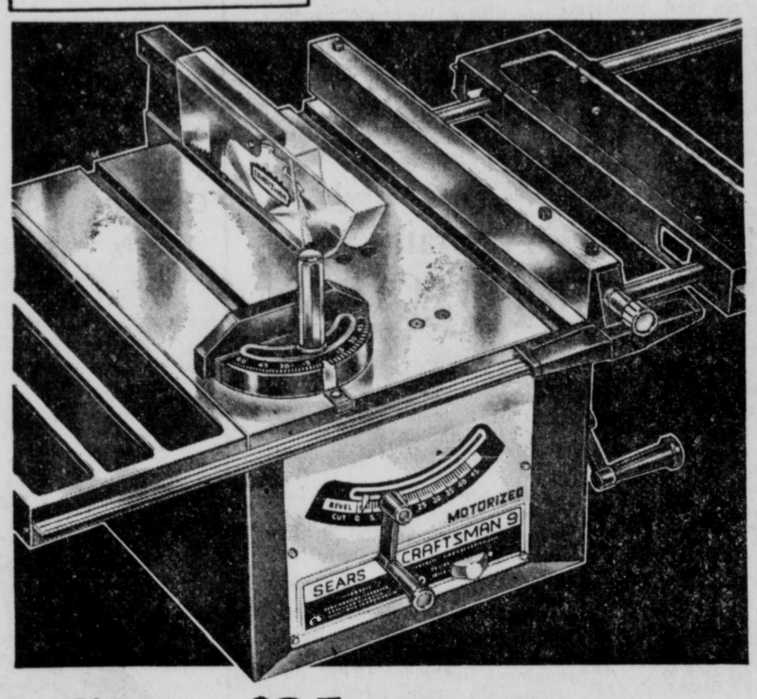

Hildebrand Pin Qualifier

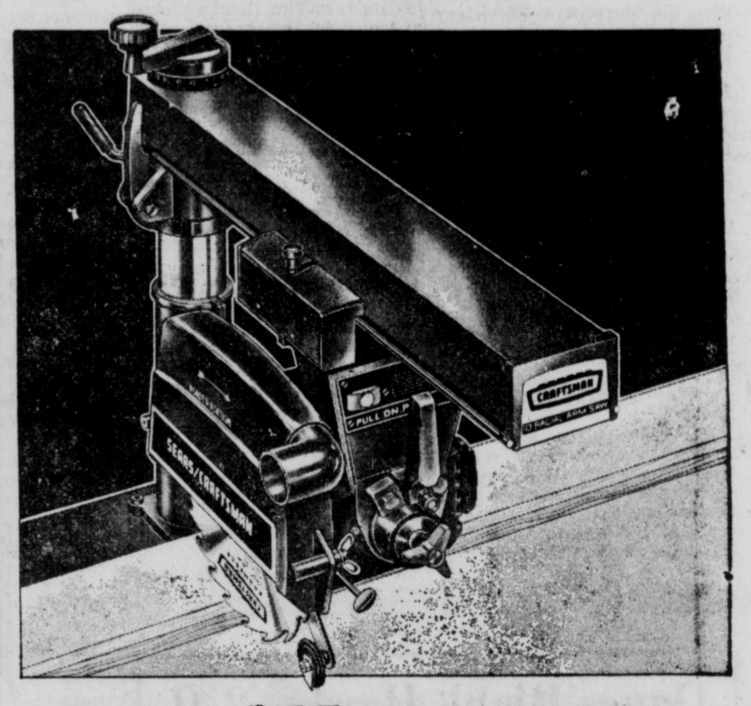

RHINEBECK — Wayne Hildebrand rolled a triple in the seventh, eighth and ninth frames to defeat Charles Montanino 243-236 in the weekly finals at the 9-G Lanes and qualify for the Hudson Valley Match Game Championship later in the season.

Hildebrand led the qualifying round with gross 716 to Montanino's 687, after posting highest qualifying series of the week with 697.

Trailing the leaders in order were: Jim Lazarus, Archie Sigler, George Nikolotos and Joe Mannhaupt. Information on the weekly eliminations may be obtained by calling Al North at 9-C Lanes.

An Old Southwest Feud

Oklahoma Favored to Beat Texas

By CHRIS SCHERF
UPI Sports Writer

There's nothing like bad blood to enliven a football season and it's going to flow this week.

In a feud dating back to the first oil derricks, Oklahoma and Texas highlight the State Fair in Dallas with a traditional blood-letting.

If y'all think they kin brawl down Texas way, wait till you see the Michigan State-Michigan riot before 100,000-plus screamers at Ann Arbor.

The Wolverines lost a trip to the Rose Bowl last year when the Michigan State athletic director voted to send Ohio State instead. The Wolverines will be fighting for revenge, the Spartans for survival. It remains to be seen which provides the stronger motivation.

Last week was another shocker, hitting on 28 of 35 picks for a second straight scorecard of 80 per cent or better. That also brought the season's tally to 74-25, almost 75 per cent.

But, things get tough this week with the regional rivalries. You know what they say, "you can throw out the record books."

The East

Pittsburgh 27 West Virginia 17—A regional rivalry. Alas, the Mountaineers can't throw their record book far enough.

Penn State 38 Wake Forest 3—Well, it's better than playing Oklahoma again.

Navy 20 Syracuse 17—Only because somebody has to win.

Also: Harvard 21 over Columbia, Penn 1 over Cornell, Dartmouth 10 over Princeton, Yale 6 over Brown.

The South

Alabama 38 Florida State 10—Crimson Tide taking the week off.

Auburn 17 Kentucky 3—War Eagles won't lose many if they continue to prevent opponents from scoring touchdowns.

Mississippi 21 Georgia 20—Rebels with a slight road surprise.

LSU 21 Tennessee 17—Three Bengals' losses in first five games? Naw.

Maryland 20 Clemson 10—Welcome back to earth.

South Carolina 21 Virginia Tech 7—Tech lost to VMI last week.

Florida 13 Vanderbilt 10—The Gators due for a letdown and Vandy lost by only 13 at Alabama.

Also: Miami 17 over Pacific, Duke 8 over Army, North Carolina 7 over Georgia Tech, North Carolina State 13 over Virginia.

The Midwest

Notre Dame 42 Rice 0—Instant Rice pudding.

Ohio State 31 Wisconsin 17—Tough to win in Columbus.

Michigan 24 Michigan State 7—Revenge.

Also: Minnesota 4 over Indiana, Illinois 6 over Purdue, Iowa 3 over Northwestern.

The Midlands

Kansas 24 Kansas State 21—Stick with the book.

Nebraska 31 Missouri 14—Nebraskans can live with drought. A loss at home, never.

The Southwest

Arkansas 24 Baylor 14—The Bears still a mystery, this will tell the tale.

Oklahoma 31 Texas 21—Sooners have yet to beat a proven foe. Now they have.

Texas A&M 17 Texas Tech 14—In the big 'un, at home.

SMU 17 TCU 14—Mustangs by a field goal. Yes, a field goal.

The Rockies

Iowa State 15 Colorado 14—Upset special.

Wyoming 27 Brigham Young 14 — Brigham Young should have won last week, when it had the chance.

Arizona 35 Utah 14—Bruce Hill has Wildcats in gear.

Tulane 24 Air Force 21—Falcons sinking to level of Army and Navy, unfortunately.

Far West

California 21 Oregon 13—Many Cal freshmen never heard of Mario Savio and his Free Speech Movement. No wonder football's coming back.

Washington 24 Oregon State 16—Oregon State short on talent.

UCLA 27 Stanford 17—When Stanford changed name from Indians, students wanted to call them the Thunder Chickens. Bird is cooked this year.

Southern Cal 24 Washington State 10 — Trojans not as good as thought this year, but can handle Cougars.

RPI Defeats Hawks at Nets

TROY

Once-beaten RPI had to struggle in several of the matches but came away with a 7-2 tennis victory over New Paltz State Tuesday.

Only Ken McGrady — the No. 2 man — and Larry Kaplan — No. 4 — were victorious for the Hawks. Two other singles matches and one doubles encounter went to three sets but in RPI's favor.

In singles, Tom Sauchick (R) beat Barry Sacher, 6-1, 6-1; McGrady (NP) stopped Craig Skevington, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4; Stu Streif (R) topped Lee Goldenberg, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2; Kaplan (NP) upended Harry Figgie, 6-4, 6-4; Bob Heisker (R) tripped Jim Fitzharris, 7-5, 7-5; and Mark Logan (R) whipped Bill Guilfoyle, 6-0, 5-7, 6-4.

In doubles, Sauchick and Streif (R) beat Sacher and Goldenberg, 6-0, 6-4; Skevington and Figgie (R) defeated McGrady and Guilfoyle, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0; and Heisker and Logan (R) nailed Kaplan and Fitzharris, 6-3, 7-5.

RPI is 7-1 on the season. New Paltz is 2-3.

The Hawks travel to Binghamton Friday for the two-da. State University of New York Athletic Conference tournament.

NOTICE OF SALE
Index No. 76-639

In pursuance of a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled action and bearing date the 2nd day of October, 1974, I, the undersigned, the Referee in the said Judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the County Court House, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 8th day of November, 1974, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

"ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate at Willow in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster, the State of New York bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at a point in the center of the public road known as the Eighmey Road leading between Willow and the State Highway Route 212, said point being in line with the westerly line of a parcel of land conveyed by Ralph Eighmey to Ann L. Stone, thence from the said point of beginning running along the westerly line of said Stone and with a line passing through an iron pipe driven in the ground on the northerly side of the said Eighmey Road on a course of north 9 degrees 45 minutes 20 seconds west 108.49 feet to an iron pipe driven in the ground, thence continuing along the lands of Stone north 57 degrees 10 minutes 40 seconds east 282.06 feet to a point in a stone wall at the most westerly corner of the lands now or formerly of Natalie and Otto Sonnenberg, thence running along the lands now or formerly Pollack and Ware north 47 degrees 40 minutes 00 seconds west 240.00 feet to an iron pipe driven in the ground, thence continuing along the same lands south 86 degrees 00 minutes 00 seconds west 231.62 feet to an iron pipe driven in the ground, thence continuing along the same, running to and along the center of the newly constructed road leading along the premises herein described to the said Eighmey Road on a course of south 47 degrees 43 minutes 10 seconds west 457.00 feet to a point in the center of said road, thence crossing near the end of a sharp turn in said road south 15 degrees 18 minutes 50 seconds east 132.56 feet to a point in the center of said road, thence continuing along said road north 84 degrees 21 minutes 00 seconds east 117.77 feet to a point at the beginning of a curve in said road, thence continuing along the center of said road on a curve to the left having a radius of 1006.33 feet for a length of arc of 99.92 feet to a point, thence continuing along the center of said road 78 degrees 39 minutes 40 seconds east 249.25 feet to a point in the center of said road opposite the entrance of said road from the said Eighmey Road, thence running through said entrance portion of said road south 9 degrees 45 minutes 20 seconds east 52.02 feet to a point in the center of the said Eighmey Road, thence running easterly along the same on a curve to the right having a radius of 586.50 feet for a length of arc of 25.00 feet to the point and place of beginning. Containing 4.505 acres.

BEING a portion of premises conveyed to Joseph Pollack and Laurence D. Ware by deed dated June 5, 1971 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office June 8, 1971 in Liber 1259 of Deeds at Page 1099.

Reserving over the premises above described a strip of land about 25 feet wide for public road purposes extending along the entire frontage along the above mentioned private road with the right of the parties of the first part, their heirs and assigns, to contruct, maintain, surface and to convey to the Town of Woodstock that portion of land as is contained within the bounds of the said road as part of a public road at such time the same becomes acceptable for a public road.

LEGAL NOTICE

Granting to the parties of the second part, their heirs and assigns a right of way over the above mentioned private road for ingress and egress from and to the said lands herein conveyed and the said Eighmey Road, subject to the use in common with all others now having or who may hereafter acquire the right to use the same.

A. The party of the second part covenants that neither they nor their heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns shall:

1. Use the property herein conveyed other than for residential purposes,—single family and garage;

2. Erect any residence upon the plot or any part thereof which shall contain less than 1200 square feet of living space;

3. Erect any dwelling on the premises which is less than seventy-five (75) feet from said private road and less than fifty (50) feet from any side or rear line of the within conveyed property;

4. Remove more than 50% of the trees and other growth on the property;

5. Subject to the zoning laws then applicable requiring greater acreage for the erection of a residential dwelling, erect a residential dwelling on a property the size of which property shall be less than two (2) acres;

6. Permit any hunting, whether with firearms or otheewise, on the property herein conveyed;

7. Erect any boundary fences or use any other substance or material the result of which will be the demarcation of property lines;

8. Use any skimobile or other motorized vehicle for recreational purposes on the property herein conveyed;

9. The property herein conveyed may not be subdivided in any manner whatsoever.

B. The party of the second part for themselves and for their heirs, executors, successors and assigns, covenant that they shall:

1. Maintain the above mentioned private road in conjunction with all other abutting property owners, the cost of which shall be divided in direct proportion to the number of acres each property owner owns as it bears to the total number of acres of all abutting property owners. The term "maintain" as used herein shall include but shall not be limited to the plowing of said road for snow removal;

2. Subject to the rights of the parties of the first part, upon consent of a majority of the abuting property owners, convey the above mentioned private road to the Town or County for use as a public road at such time that the same becomes acceptable for a public road. The cost, if any, of converting said road into a road acceptable to the Town or County as a public road will be borne by all the abutting property owners in proportion to the number of acres each property owner owns as it bears to the total number of acres of all abutting property owners.

The aforesaid covenants and restrictions shall run with the land and shall bind all future owners thereof.

All restrictions and covenants herein set forth shall enure to the benefit of not only the party of the first part and the party of the second part, but all adjoining property owners whose title is directly traceable to the parties of the first part herein."

Being the same premises conveyed by Joseph Pollack and Laurence D. Ware to Laurence D. Ware and Ellen L. Ware, his wife, by deed dated August 21, 1972 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on September 1, 1972 in Book 1285 of Deeds, page 15.

SUBJECT to all existing unpaid taxes, covenants, restrictions, easements and rights of way of record, if any, and to existing leases and tenancies.

Dated: October 8th, 1974.

CARROLS PRESENTS ANOTHER ROAST BEEF MEMORY.

I was sitting in Carrols the other day having one of their new Roast Beef Heros. And as I tasted my first bite, I started to remember . . .

The gang and I had been playing softball in old Mr. Gilmore's lot. The game lasted all morning and by noontime the only thing I could think about was Louie's Delicatessen.

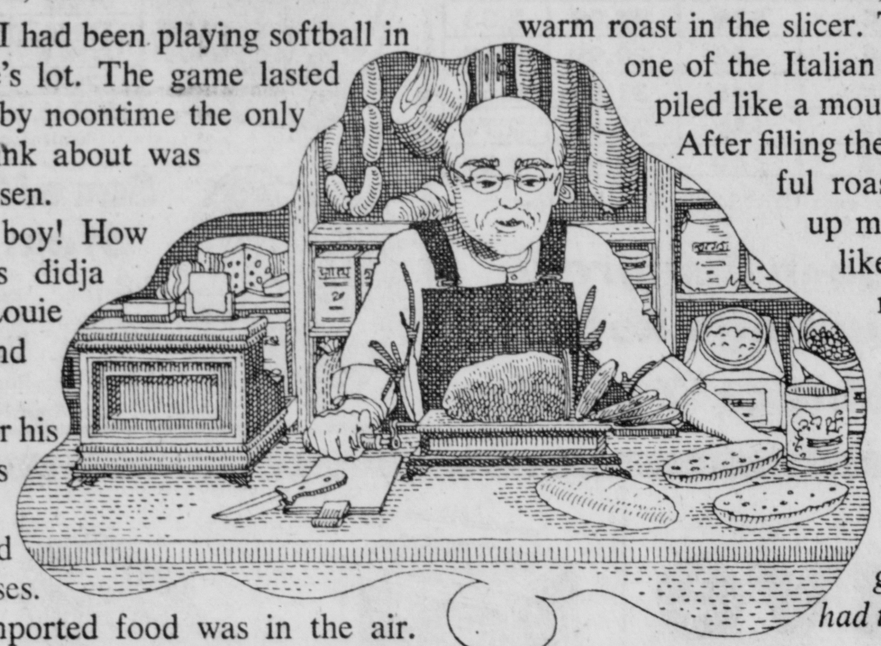

"Freddie, my boy! How many home-runs didja hit this time?" Louie said from behind the counter.

Suspended over his head were salamis as big as baseball bats, sausages and great round cheeses. The smell of imported food was in the air.

"Hope you're here for your usual, cause I just took a roast beef out of the oven."

Before I could answer, Louie had the still warm roast in the slicer. Then he reached for one of the Italian hero rolls that were piled like a mountain in the window. After filling the roll with that beautiful roast beef, he wrapped up my hero in wax paper like a present. When I reached the door I was practically running. I could hardly wait to eat . . .

And you know, Carrols new Roast Beef Hero is just as good as that hero I had that day from Louie's.

TRY CARROLS ROAST BEEF HERO.
...IT'S REAL ROAST BEEF ON A HERO ROLL.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone will try to put a bit of a damper on one of your social interests. It won't be enough to keep you from having a good time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll be more pleased with the results if you take over work you're thinking about having others do around the house.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're hoping to conduct some business under a social cover it won't work out too well today. Treat each area separately.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're a bit concerned that someone you're doing a favor for doesn't know it's solely your doing. Relax. He does.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't become discouraged if others don't see the merits of your ideas immediately. Later they'll come around to your way of thinking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Situations you're presently involved in where profit is a motive look reasonably favorable for you today and tomorow, if you stay on top of things.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're a master at working out compromises if you really try. Today, your innate talents will be put to a test. Be fair, as always.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be deterred from going shooting at targets you've set for yourself. The small frustrations are all manageable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Solutions you're looking for to solve a problem of importance are best found now if you solicit the aid of experts or professionals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your present position is stronger than you realize. Stop concentrating on negative aspects. Start using the opportunities at hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're likely to take some positive steps now, rather than wait on another to make the initial approach in a situation where you're both affected.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An interesting situation is developing. It will have a favorable effect upon your work or career. It will call for initiative on your behalf.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

IN A RUT: (Q.) I am 15, not bad looking, and level-headed. Every time I go out with a boy we do some kissing, and then he asks me to go all the way.

I always give him a firm "No!" Then he drops me like a hot potato. This has happened more times than I can count, and I am at the end of my rope. Aren't there any boys left who just want to have good clean fun? —Discouraged in New York.

(A.) You are NOT at the end of your rope. You appear to have no trouble finding new boys. It is inevitable that if you keep trying you will find a boy who is willing to share good clean fun with you.

My research shows there are a lot of boys of the type you are hunting. Keep hunting.

THREATS: (Q.) These two guys at school are bigger than I am. They keep telling me they are going to beat me up. I told them I'm too scared to fight. They said that doesn't make any difference—they're going to beat me up, anyway. I don't know what to do.—Afraid in Indiana.

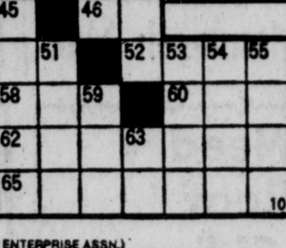

(A.) It may help you to know that bullies like these two boys are also afraid. They build themselves up by trying to scare other people.

If they have threatened you a number of times but have done nothing, I doubt if they will attack you now. But if you believe they are going to, do not hesitate to go to your teacher, counselor or principal and report their threats.

You can have a lot of fun with today's hand if you cover up the East and West cards. Now try to make your spade slam after East wins the first trick with the king of hearts and returns the five of clubs.

You win in dummy and can afford to play one round of trumps. Both opponents follow. Now, there is a very simple way to proceed. Play a second trump and go after diamonds. If the suit breaks 3-2 you will have a million tricks. A second line will be to try to ruff both your losing hearts. That will fail if West started with just two hearts and the jack of spades.

Is there a third way? There sure is! You can draw the defense's last trump; ruff a heart; ruff a club back to your hand and run off all your trumps.

If West has a diamond stopper he will be squeezed out of it since he will have to hang on to the queen of clubs. If East has the diamond stopper he will also be squeezed since he must hang on to the ace of hearts.

This play is known as an automatic double squeeze. Only West can guard against the jack of clubs; only East can guard against the queen of hearts. Therefore, neither one can protect diamonds.

'Treated Like a Lady'

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — A U.S. woman official freed from a 13-day kidnap ordeal at the hands of leftist guerrillas says she was treated "like a lady and a diplomat" and grew to like her courteous captors.

"We hostages got to know them and even to like them a little under the necessity of sharing food and water," U.S. Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison said.

The seven guerrillas ended their siege at the Venezulan Consulate Wednesday night, freeing their seven hostages unharmed and flying off to asylum in Panama.

In Panama City, mustached guerrilla chief Radames Mendez Vargas arrived with his ragtag band and said, "A war is not lost with one battle. There will be other actions against the Dominican government."

Miss Hutchison, a 47-year-old native of Newark, Del., told a late night news conference she "never thought they'd carry out their promise and shoot us."

"They were very courteous to me and the other two ladies," she said. "They treated me like a lady and like a diplomat."

Miss Hutchison, wearing a red evening gown and blue brooch, chain-smoked cigarettes while talking with reporters at the home of U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch, but otherwise appeared calm.

She burst into tears, however, when embassy employes later came in to hug her.

Miss Hutchison said the small room the hostages were kept in was "claustrophobic." The Dominican government cut off electricity and water to the building for most of the siege, but allowed daily food deliveries.

The guerrillas kidnaped her as she drove to work Sept. 27 and took her to the the consulate. They quickly captured the building and seized six other hostages —two Venezuelan diplomats, a Spanish priest and three Dominican employes.

The leftists demanded a $1 million ransom, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe passage abroad. They threatened to kill a hostage every two hours to press demands, but let four deadlines pass without any slayings.

President Joaquin Balaguer offered the guerrillas one "final and definitive" offer Monday night: a flight out of the country in exchange for the captives.

Miss Hutchison praised the U.S., Venezuelan and Spanish ambassadors for their negotiations with the guerrillas on behalf of the hostages and said she was "especially grateful" for the efforts of Balaguer.

The kidnapers' first two choices for asylum —Mexico and Peru —turned them down. Panama finally agreed to take the leftists "to help the Dominican government end this unfortunate situation."

Riot Police Called to Enforce Boston Busing

BOSTON (UPI) — Four-hundred riot-trained state and metropolitan police arrived in racially torn Boston today to help protect children and enforce a court ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools by busing.

The reinforcements were called to help local police cope with the widespread violence that has erupted in both white and black sections of the city, in schools and outside them, throughout the day and night.

State and Metropolitan District Police were ordered here after U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity turned down a dramatic appeal for U.S. marshals by Mayor Kevin H. White, who conceded the city no longer could maintain the peace and implement the busing order.

The state police squads, many of whom were called to neighboring Cambridge several years ago to put down student uprisings, arrived at the Bayside Mall in Dorchester in a caravan of 67 cruisers and three buses. They wore riot suits, including helmets, and carried nightsticks.

The state police from throughout Massachusetts were awakened between 2 and 3 a.m. today and were ordered to group at their Framingham headquarters at 5 a.m. From there they went by caravan, with three or four in each car and others in buses, to the staging area in Dorchester.

Upon arrival, they lined up in the early morning darkness in military style ranks and marched off to buses which took them to troubled areas.

Street violence Wednesday was centered in the predominantly black Roxbury section, as it was the previous day. Until Tuesday, most of the violence was in the white South Boston section, which generally opposes busing.

At least 14 arrests and 11 injuries were reported Wednesday as black youths threw rocks at buses and cars and looted stores in the Roxbury section.

Fights were reported inside Hyde Park High School, resulting in the suspension of 19 students. Citywide school attendance shrank to 60.1 per cent. One elementary school was closed early as a safety measure.

A white man, James Horan, 33, was dragged from his car and beaten by blacks in Roxbury, apparantly in retaliation for the similar beating of a black in South Boston on Monday. He was admitted to the Boston City Hospital with serious head injuries.

In South Boston, the black bus driver of a city bus and a white female passenger were injured when the bus was stoned, went out of control and struck a house.

City Councilor Louise Day Hicks, a leading opponent of busing, predicted Garrity's order for outside forces would lead to more tension in the white areas of town.

Following the judge's order, Mayor Kevin White contacted Gov. Francis W. Sargent, and they arranged for 300 state police and 100 Metropolitan District Commission officers to be assigned to Boston.

President Disagrees With Desegregation Rulings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald Ford said he wanted it clearly understood — he deplores violence, he wants the laws obeyed, but he still disapproves of the attempt to desegregate Boston's schools by enforced busing.

At his Rose Garden news conference Wednesday, the President challenged federal court desegregation rulings and sparked immediate controversy in answering a question that seemed a mere change of pace from economic issues.

About the time Ford was meeting with reporters, riot police were chasing mobs through Boston's Roxbury district in another day of violence and Mayor Kevin White was futilely asking a federal judge to send in U.S. marshals.

A reporter noted this background and asked the President: "As chief executive, what do you plan to do, and what comments do you have on this situation?"

"At the outset," Ford said in a firm, forceful voice, "I wish to make it very, very direct.

"I deplore the violence that I have read about and seen on television. I think that is most unfortunate. I would like to add this, however:

"The court decision in that case, in my judgement, was not the best solution to quality education in Boston. I have consistently opposed forced busing to achieve racial balance as a solution to quality education and, therefore, I respectfully disagree with the judge's order."

Ford urged that "the citizens of Boston respect the law" and added: "I hope and trust it is not necessary to call in federal law enforcement officials."

Within hours, the White House had a telegram expressing the outrage of NAACP executive director Roy Wilkins at Ford's remarks.

"Your crushing and extremely dangerous statements on national television that you do not approve of what you call forced busing will encourage the defiance of whites in south Boston who will agree with your respectful disagreement with the courts," Wilkins said. "It could result in the maiming or killing of black children."

Kissinger Hopeful as Peace Mission Begins

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began the first full day of his new Middle East peace mission today, hopeul of "constructive progress" in arranging the next round of Arab-Israeli talks.

Kissinger was scheduled to talk twice today with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi before going into a marathon, five-hour meeting tonight with President Anwar Sadat.

The secretary of state gave Sadat a letter from President Ford Wednesday night during an 80-minute meeting that began with a warm "Hello, Henry" embrace.

"President Ford is committed to continue the efforts the United States has made and I'll be talking to my friends here in a spirit of making constructive progress," Kissinger in Cairo at the start his week-long mission.

A high-ranking U.S. official said Kissinger hopes to set a firm date for — or a get clear indication of — the start of new Arab-Israeli talks during his visits to Syria, Jordan, Israel, Saudi Arabia, Algeria and Morocco.

The high-ranking official cited a variety of directions the new talks could take, but left out a resumption of the full-scale Geneva peace conerence as one of the choices.

He said the Soviet Union is certain to raise the controversial Palestinian question in Geneva. Kissinger is known to believe the refugee issue should be dealt with in a later round of Arab-Israeli talks.

The U.S. official said Israel and the Arabs could send foreign ministers — or lower level officials — to Washington for separate or group meetings in the next round of talks.

He said another possibility is front-line discussions patterned after the Kilometer 101 troop separation talks between Egypt and Israel early in the year.

He also suggested a possible diplomatic shuttle in the Middle East similar to Kissinger's past peace missions but at a lower level.

Cairo oficials said Egypt is willing to accept "further military disengagment" with Israel in the Sinai Desert as long as the moves are not considered a partial or interim solution to the Middle East problem.

They said Egypt wants to defer action on an Israeli-Jordanian troop withdrawal accord until Sadat tries during the Oct. 26 Arab summit meeting in Rabat, Morocco, to patch up the Jordanian-Palestinian rift.

National Election in Britain

LONDON (UPI) — Britons voted in a crucial national election today, trying for the second time this year to pick a government capable of leading the country out of its worst economic crisis since the depression.

Opinion polls indicated Prime Minister Harold Wilson's ruling Labor party would win an overwhelming mandate to take Britain down the road to socialism.

Political commentators said, however, the polls were wrong in the nation's last two general elections and cautioned against predicting a landslide Labor win.

The first of Britain's 41 million registered voters cast ballots at dawn on a cool day brightened by sunshine in the western part of the country and dampened by showers in eastern regions.

Last-minute polls gave Labor a wide lead over former Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative party in the vote for control of the 635-seat Parliament.

A poll conducted by the Marplan Organization for The Sun of London gave Labor 43 per cent, Conservatives 33.5 per cent and Liberals 19.5 per cent. A handful of tiny parties picked up the rest.

Nobel Winners Give Views

By United Press International

Nobel prize-winning economists Gunnar Myrdal and Friedrich von Hayek have painted a grim picture of the world's economy, criticizing President Ford's war on inflation and warning of a possible global monetary collapse.

The two economists, named Wednesday as joint winners of the 1974 Nobel Prize for Economics, agreed on the seriousness of the world's economic woes but differed on what to do about it.

Myrdal, the 75-year-old Swedish economist, told a news conference in New York Wednesday that Ford's plan to curb inflation is inadequate.

"I don't think it's enough and I don't think it will work," he said. "I belong to those who believe that a very much more direct — and even radical — means are needed if you are to restore a stable value of currency."

Myrdal, a visiting professor at the City University of New York, said wage and price controls are necessary to stabilize the economy and suggested immediate gasoline rationing.

What the nation needs, he said, "is a government program with teeth."

"I am very scared at what's happening now," he said. "The trend at present is leading to hell."

The 75-year-old Von Hayek, one of the few economists to predict the 1929 economic crash, cited deep similarities today to the situation 45 years ago.
